

Government to Lend 50 Cents Per Bushel on 1937 Corn Crop

Officials Say Wallace to Air Details in Few Days

LIKE FORMER PLANS Roosevelt Orders RFC To Set Up Financial Machinery

Washington—(AP)—Informed officials at the agriculture department said today the government would lend 50 cents a bushel on this year's corn crop.

These informants said details of the loan program would be announced by Secretary Wallace within a few days. They said the program would correspond in general to previous government corn loans.

The 50-cent loan will be made on corn sealed on the farm, testing 14 1/2 per cent moisture, or less.

If the field corn offered for loans contains more than 14 1/2 per cent moisture, officials said the loan rate would be adjusted downward, the maximum being 50 cents a bushel.

Farm organizations had asked a 60-cent-a-bushel loan on this year's crop and Secretary Wallace said a loan of about 46 cents would correspond to the 9-cent-a-pound government loan on this year's cotton crop.

President Roosevelt paved the way yesterday for the loan by ordering financial machinery set up by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

First Loan in 1933
The first administration corn loan on the 1933 crop was at 45 cents a bushel, well above market prices at the time. Government agencies advanced $120,000,000 on the 1933 crop.

Loan on 1934 Crop
A loan of 55 cents a bushel was made on the 1934 crop, which was cut short by drought. A total of $11,000,000 was advanced on this loan.

The rate was reduced to 45 cents a bushel on the 1935 crop and a total of $12,000,000 advanced to farmers.

The 1936 program was aimed at conserving seed corn supplies.

Agriculture department spokesmen said about $85,000,000 would be provided shortly by the Commodity Credit Corporation for the new corn loans. This would permit loans on about 170,000,000 bushels.

Two Steps Taken
The administration took two steps today toward assisting farmers who want to stabilize agriculture, and improve their financial condition.

President Roosevelt indicated, in ordering the RFC to set up machinery by which loans could be made, that there was a possibility of government loans on corn, the price of which has sagged under a bumper crop.

The house agriculture committee completed a tentative draft of a broad crop control bill, minus the controversial marketing quotas.

Mr. Roosevelt telegraphed Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that he had been considering Commodity Credit Corporation loans, including corn loans, aggregating about $85,000,000.

Wants RFC Prepared
The president asked that the RFC be prepared to make the necessary advances, pending legislation, to give the Commodity Credit Corporation "ample capital and authority to raise the funds necessary for its operations through the sale of its own obligation."

Members of the house agriculture committee, hastening work on the farm bill, were so divided over marketing restrictions that they voted to remove them for the time being, sending the first draft to the printers.

The general regulatory provisions of the tentative measure were described as having been designed primarily for cotton, wheat and rice on a voluntary basis.

The Key Is Used By Day and Knights

When a new king is crowned in London they change the lock and key to the Tower. Cautious, eh? The job requires the combined efforts of the lord marshal of the Tower, two dukes, eighteen barons of the cinque ports, eleven standard-bearers and the full company of beef-eaters under the chief yeoman of the guards. Between them, the key has never been lost or mislaid. Otherwise, of course, they'd have run a-Ch well, this Lost and Found ad in The Post-Crescent brought back a cow.

NAMED TORKELSON'S SUCCESSOR

Washington—(AP)—Philip Flanner (above), director of the Wisconsin Public Welfare department, was appointed works progress administrator for that state yesterday by Harry L. Hopkins, WPA chief. Appointment of Flanner came simultaneously with Hopkins' acceptance of Martin W. Torkelson's resignation as WPA head in Wisconsin. Torkelson submitted his resignation some time ago but the WPA administrator refused then to act on it.

Hopkins telegraphed Torkelson "I am accepting with regret your resignation as WPA administrator for Wisconsin. With best wishes, Harry H. Hopkins."

Flanner's appointment was effective immediately. The new director is 41 years old and a graduate of Cornell university. He formerly was Forest county director for the federal emergency relief administration and became field representative for FERA in 1935.

Personalities, Rather Than National Issues, Dominate Voting in Fifteen States

By the Associated Press
Voters in 15 states cast ballots today in local elections which may provide an indication of national political trends.

Personalities rather than national issues, however, dominated the off-year elections of mayors in more than 30 cities, legislatures in five states, governors in Virginia and New Jersey and four congressmen to fill vacancies in New York and Virginia.

Detroit's non-partisan election shared attention with the New York city mayoralty battle. Patrick H. O'Brien, endorsed by the Committee for Industrial Organization, contested Richard W. Reading, supported by the American Federation of Labor, for the Detroit Mayor's post.

Some of the winners in today's balloting may receive consideration as 1940 presidential timber.

Political observers mentioned three men especially in that connection:

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, seeking reelection with the backing of an unusual coalition of Republicans, Laborites, Socialists and Communists.

United States Senator A. Harry Moore and State Senator Lester H. Clee, contesting for the governorship of New Jersey. Moore, a Democrat, has been governor twice. Clee, a Republican, is a Presbyterian minister.

Mahoney Fights LaGuardia
Opposing LaGuardia was Jeremiah T. Mahoney, running on a Democratic ticket with the support of Tammany hall, Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, Governor Herbert Lehman, and Senator Robert F. Wagner.

Managers of both candidates claimed victory, but a majority of the New York newspapers predicted LaGuardia would win.

Both candidates are supporters of President Roosevelt, so that the national administration did not become an issue. The president, voting at his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., has taken no sides in the metropolitan election.

John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization was active both in New York and Detroit election offices. In New York it was backing LaGuardia. In Detroit it had its own candidate for mayor, Patrick H. O'Brien, running against City Clerk Richard Reading, and it also had five candidates for city council seats.

See Record Vote
Reading led O'Brien by 39,000 votes in the primary four weeks ago. Some American Federation of Labor leaders have since thrown their support to Reading. Election

Kentucky Troops Guard Coal Area

Harlan, Ky.—(AP)—National guardsmen went on duty in the Harlan coal fields today on orders of Governor A. B. Chandler who stated he had reports that "deputy sheriffs armed with rifles were taking charge of the election."

The governor stated at Frankfort that these reports came from representatives of both Democratic and Republican parties and that State Senator B. M. Williams and Advisory Highway Commissioner Herb Smith, both of Harlan, were among those who had communicated with him. Feeling over the election was reported tense.

The troops have orders to disarm any one found armed at the polls and interfering with the election. Governor Chandler declared.

No violence was reported from the coal fields, scene of killings in previous elections, but there were several arrests. State police took Deputy Sheriff Ben Unthank to jail and also took into custody the election officials at the town of Canwood. The ballot box was seized there also. Sergeant Clyde Jones, in charge of state police, declined to say what charges, if any, had been filed against Unthank or the Canwood election officers. State police were armed with rifles in addition to their regular sidearms.

Shells Menace U. S. Cruiser Near Shanghai

Japanese Naval Bombardment Aimed at Chinese in Pootung

BATTLE CONTINUES

International Settlement And French Concession Threatened

Shanghai—(AP)—Huge projectiles from Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river burst along Shanghai's waterfront tonight menacingly close to the United States cruiser Augusta.

The Augusta, lying close to the cruiser Izumo, Japanese flagship, cleared her decks and batted portholes as a precaution for the safety of her crew.

The bombardment was aimed at the Chinese batteries in industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo from the International Settlement. It was in answer to Chinese artillery shelling of Japanese forces in the Yangtzepoo and Hongkew sectors of the Shanghai front.

Shanghai's International Settlement and French concession retold thousands of American and other foreigners, were shaken today by intensive Japanese bombardment of Chinese positions only a short distance to the west.

Exploding bombs and shells shook buildings as far away as Shanghai's Bund, but no projectiles fell within the settlement or concession boundaries.

At St. John's university, in the Jessfield park area just west of the settlement, a trench mortar shell crashed into the roof of a gymnasium used as a barracks by British troops, but none was injured.

The tide of battle swept toward the Siccawei Catholic mission center on the southwestern outskirts of the French concession. French authorities prepared defense positions circling the mission and set up anti-aircraft guns.

Japanese Gain
A Japanese naval officer described as closed a Siccawei creek incident which yesterday produced an American protest and a Japanese apology. The officer said Japanese bluejackets sent back to the American-protected zone a junk seized on the International Settlement side of the stream.

The Japanese bombardment was designed to pulverize Chinese defenses extending west from the International Settlement south of Siccawei creek. Despite Chinese assertions to the contrary, foreign observers reported that Japanese on the southern bank of the stream had expanded their front for approximately a mile on each side of Rubicon village.

St. John's university campus, a wooded tongue formed by a northward loop of the creek, was turned into a no man's land. Japanese shells from the north and Chinese shells from the south passed each other over the area.

All American faculty members previously had evacuated the crowded section surrounding the university grounds.

Negotiations were under way among French, Chinese and Japanese authorities to outline a protective neutral zone around the mission properties.

Woman Is Wounded as Gunman Holds Up Store
Racine—(AP)—A masked robber held up a country grocery store at Mygatts corner, four miles west of here last night and shot the wife of the proprietor before escaping in a stolen car.

The injured woman, Mrs. Roy Jones, shot in the shoulder and was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment.

Jones, his wife, and four patrons were forced to line up against the wall by the intruder who then directed Mrs. Jones to empty the cash drawer. Deputy sheriffs said the robber fired as she was complying with his request, and then fled with the $50 loot, taking a car parked in a nearby driveway. Witnesses said the man drove west on Highway 20. He wore a hooded sweat-shirt to hide his features.

Hold Milwaukeean in Alleged $500 Swindle
Spencer, Ia.—(AP)—Clay county officers said last night they were holding Lawrence Bardine of Milwaukee, Wis., on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with an alleged $500 diamond swindle. His bond was set at $2,000.

Says Most Farm Leaders Oppose Wage-Hour Bill
Baltimore—(AP)—Fred A. Sexauer, Auburn, N. Y., president of the Dairymen's League Cooperation Association, Inc., said today most farm leaders oppose the Black-Connery wage-hour bill "with great bitterness."

Sexauer, in an address prepared for delivery before the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, contended a 40-hour work week with wages of 40 cents an hour would reduce the supply of farm labor and increase prices of products needed by farmers. He was unable to appear as his address was read.

He asked congress to re-open consideration of the bill and hold hearings for farmers.

U. S. Declines Bid From Cuba to Act For Peace in Spain

Washington—(AP)—The United States declined today an invitation from the Cuban government to participate in a proposed all-American mediation of the Spanish civil war.

The American government turned down the invitation on the grounds that it repeatedly had expressed an intention of refraining from any interference in the Spanish situation.

After setting forth that this principle was applied in a similar manner toward a mediation proposal put forward by Uruguay more than a year ago, Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said in a formal note to the Cuban government:

"The government of the United States feels confident that in the light of the foregoing the government of Cuba will fully appreciate the consideration which precludes it from associating itself with the action proposed by that government."

The note expressed, nevertheless, the "very earnest hope" of the American government and people "that a peaceful method of terminating this strife may be found."

In a note dated Oct. 21, the Cuban government asserted that it contemplated the Spanish war "with a deep sorrow" and invited all of the American republics to extend their good offices in arranging an armistice and, eventually, peace terms.

Deny Danzig Will Move for Union With Third Reich

Nazi Leader's Statement Called 'Rhetorical Twist of Speech'

Berlin—(AP)—A forecast by the Berlin Nazi leader that "the time will soon come when the flag of the third reich will be the state flag also of the Free City of Danzig" was authoritatively described here today as merely "a rhetorical twist of speech."

Wilhelmstrasse vigorously denied that Danzig's aspiration of the swastika as predicted by District Leader Albert Forster meant "anschluss" — union.

"(The Danzig leader made the prediction in an address last night after telling his audience that he spent last Thursday with Chancellor Hitler of Germany.)

"(Forster declared Danzig decided to break completely with the past after dissolution Oct. 21 of the Catholic center party, last Danzig parliamentary opposition to the Nazis.)

Won't Join Reich
(He said a series of laws in harmony with those of Germany soon would be promulgated and he asked housewives not to buy in Jewish shops.)

A Berlin foreign office spokesman said that "under no circumstances can the deduction be made that Danzig will be joined to the reich when the Danzig people adopt our flag as theirs."

The spokesman expressed the opinion that what Forster really meant was:

"Just as the Nazi party in Germany on assuming full power raised its party flag to a national emblem, so the Danzig Nazis now that the fully control the little free state will also make their party flag the state emblem."

When asked how foreign commanders would be able to tell the difference between German and Danzig ships — with their identical flags — the spokesman said:

"It will be rather difficult, it must be admitted."

Chicago Chinatown Leader Is Murdered

Chicago—(AP)—The slaying of Chin Jack Lam, 61, wealthy and powerful Chinese merchant, sent reverberations through Chicago's Chinatown today.

Lam was walking in the rain last night when his assailant crept up behind, touched him on the shoulder and fired four shots as he turned.

The victim's sons told police their father had given a large Chinese embassy at Washington, D. C., but had refused to contribute to funds collected here. They viewed the refusal as the motive for the assassination.

"The killing was done in a flash," said the only known witness, Walter Olson, a city fireman. "The man who shot him turned back into the nearby vacant lot and was lost in the rain."

Lam was described as the unofficial ruler of Chicago's Chinatown, where he owned considerable property.

Woman Denies Poisoning Four Men for Money

Mrs. Hahn Takes Witness Stand in Her Own Defense

TRIAL IN RECESS

Jurors Permitted to Cast Votes in Cincinnati Elections

Cincinnati—(AP)—The trial of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn charged with fatally poisoning Jacob Wagner, 78, was in recess today to permit the jury of eleven women and one man to cast ballots in a city election under guard of bailiffs.

Taking the stand in her own defense last night, the 31-year-old mother denied state charges she had poisoned four men for their money.

She is under indictment in the death of George Gsellmann, 67, and the court admitted "collateral evidence" in the death of George Obendorfer, 67, a cobbler, and Albert J. Palmer, 72, retired railroad watchman.

"I was on a vacation, not to care for him," she said of Obendorfer, who died in a Colorado Springs, Colo., hospital Aug. 7. She testified she accompanied the cobbler from Cincinnati four days after she struck up an acquaintance with him in his shop.

"Won At Races"
Displaying calmness under sharp questioning by Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcall, she said she "guessed" she won some money on the races "when pressed for an explanation of a $250 deposit shortly after Obendorfer withdrew $350 from his account."

Mrs. Hahn said she permitted doctors to bend over Obendorfer's deathbed and attempt in vain to learn his name "because I wanted them to find out for themselves."

Replying slowly, Mrs. Hahn said she was not aware that the fatal illness of Obendorfer, Wagner and Palmer involved similar symptoms, as Outcall contended.

Under questioning of Chief Defense Counsel Joseph H. Hoodin, the blonde defendant said she never had seen a bottle in the rafters of her cellar until Police Captain Patrick Hayes found it during a search of her home. State chemists later identified its contents as a violent metallic poison.

Nine Railroads Facing Charges

Examiner Accuses Them Of Discrimination on Lake Cargo Coal

Washington—(AP)—Nine railroads which move lake cargo coal faced charges today by an interstate commerce commission examiner that they had violated federal laws by discrimination in their charges.

The roads, which handle 36,000,000 tons of coal annually, are the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western; Lehigh Valley; Pennsylvania; Baltimore and Ohio; Erie; Bessemer and Lake Erie; New York Central; Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

The examiner, E. A. Burslem, alleged all except the Pennsylvania and C. and O. received non-compensatory charges for the transfer of coal from cars to vessels at lake ports, in violation of the interstate commerce act.

The examiner listed 18 specific findings of alleged violations.

Mainly, the charges were, in effect, that the charges assessed and collected were not equal to the cost of transferring the cargo.

"Although respondents charge all trans-shippers, the same tariff charges for the transfer of lake coal from cars to vessels," the examiner said, "it is obvious that the according of non-compensatory transfer charges to some trans-shippers and not to all is equivalent to deduction from the charges for the transfer service to some trans-shippers, and not to others for like and contemporary service."

Would Send Slaying to Hospital for Insane

Racine—(AP)—Three psychiatrists will recommend to Circuit Judge E. R. Belden Saturday that Frank Periberg, 49, accused slayer of Joseph Poplawski, 42, be committed to the Central State Hospital for Insane at Waupun.

Periberg, held on a first-degree murder charge, was examined yesterday by Drs. William Lorenz, Madison, and William Konnak and C. K. Hahn, Racine. Periberg's counsel has entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity to the charge Periberg stabbed Poplawski in the pattern-making firm where they were employed.

Claim Bad Pumpkin Pie Poisoned CCC Workers

Hancock, Mich.—(AP)—All save one of the 12 Isle Royale CCC camp workers who suffered food poisoning over the weekend were "up and around" today after rapid recovery steps.

George F. Baggeley, national park service representative, said John Kurtz of Calumet, a camp foreman most seriously ill of the group, was still in a hospital here.

Investigation disclosed the cause of the poisoning was in bad pumpkin pie and fried fish, Baggeley said.

Head of American Delegation Won't Preside at Parley

Norman H. Davis

Refuses Unofficial Bid at Brussels

NEW PEACE EFFORT

Delegations Favor Sending New Invitation to Japan

Brussels, Belgium—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, it was learned today, has declined an unofficial bid to preside at the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Davis, head of the American delegation to the conference opening tomorrow, declined, with thanks, the offer of leaders to make him president.

After a conference today between British and United States delegates, a British spokesman told the Associated Press the chief objective of the two delegations was to follow a common policy.

This, it was indicated, would concentrate upon a conciliatory effort designed to stop the Chinese-Japanese conflict. If this fails, the next step would have to be determination of public opinion in Great Britain and the United States.

A movement was under way today to give Japan another chance to participate in the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Consider New Invitation
Several delegations indicated they favor sending another invitation to Tokio after the conference starts tomorrow.

(Japan rejected the original invitation on the ground that the conference was inspired by the League of Nations, which already had condemned Japanese military action in China.)

Supporters of this line of thought stressed the friendliness of such a move and the hope that Japan would understand it as such.

The United States and British delegations conferred for more than two hours behind closed doors after the arrival of Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

Hold Conference
Eden met Davis, Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, Far East adviser of the United States State Department, and J. Pierrepont Moffat, chief of the European division of the United States State department in their hotel room.

Signatories of the nine-power treaty were the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Portugal, China and Japan. Later it was adhered to by Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Bolivia and Mexico.

The governments of Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, India, Germany and Russia were invited to participate in the Brussels conference. Japan and Germany declined to attend.

Roosevelt to Receive Windsors at Capital

Washington—(AP)—British ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay conferred with Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, today on arrangements for the forthcoming visit of the Windsors, Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Although the envoy said afterward that plans still are subject to change in accordance with the wishes of the royal visitors, it was learned they plan a 36-hour stay in Washington.

During this time they will be received by President Roosevelt. The British ambassador and Lady Lindsay will be the first representatives of Britain's royal family to entertain Edward, England's abdicated monarch.

It was learned authoritatively that President Roosevelt has given personal orders that the protocol section of the state department assist in making any arrangements the Windsors desire for inspection of government sponsored projects, in which Edward is especially interested.

Asks Repeal of Tax on Undistributed Profits

Washington—(AP)—Senator Glass (D-Va.) recommended today the repeal of the undistributed profits tax and modification of the capital gains levy as a means of stimulating employment and business.

The taxes have been criticized by many industrialists and financiers. A house ways and means subcommittee has arranged to study the advisability of altering them. It will meet Thursday to consider revising the entire tax system.

Kenosha Collects $7.89 Deposited in New York in 1860

Kenosha—(AP)—A deposit of $7.89 in a New York city bank was returned to this city yesterday after bank officials had notified City Manager H. C. Laughlin the account had been inactive since Jan. 16, 1860.

Surmising that even a small sum would draw a substantial amount of interest during such a period, city officers mulled over the possibility of a windfall for the city treasury.

But the $7.89 check came with notation the money had been in a checking account, and had drawn no interest.

'Short Recession' In Business Blow To Budget Plans

'General Upswing of Cycle' Temporarily Halted, Economists Say

Washington — (7) — Government economists forecast today that the current business recession will "run well into 1938." This raised the possibility that President Roosevelt's plans for a balanced budget might be upset.

If the forecast by the bureau of agricultural economics should prove accurate, it would jeopardize treasury hopes for increased revenue and make curtailment of expenditures more difficult.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated he was counting on continued business improvement for this extra revenue and for curtailment of relief and other spending.

Revenue estimates, however, are based directly on calculations of national income. The farm economists predicted the steady rise in national income since 1933 would be broken by a drop next year below the 1937 total.

Only last week, while discussing the budget situation, the president expressed hope for great future increases in national income. He said it would rise from $55,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000 this year and later might continue upward to $90,000,000,000 or $100,000,000,000.

Sees Continued Upswing

The forecast of the bureau of agricultural economics did not dispute this long-range prospect. Although it was rather pessimistic over the immediate future, it pictured business as in a "relatively short recession" such as usually accompanies "the general upswing of a business cycle."

It predicted conditions during the second half of next year would be more favorable than in the first half.

But in making their usual fall estimate of business conditions to help farmers plan ahead, the agricultural economists minced no words in saying their analysis indicated "the upswing of the business cycle has been temporarily halted."

They did not estimate how much of a drop in national income might be expected in 1938, but any drop might prove serious to the budget balancing program.

Revenue Outlook

The latest estimate of this year's net deficit was $695,000,000. This was based on total revenue of $6,650,000,000 which could not be expected to increase, without higher taxes, in the face of curtailed national income.

In forecasting a lower industrial activity next year, the economists analyzed prospects in a number of leading industries. They predicted:

A considerable decrease in the output of textiles, with a substantial part of this decline occurring before the middle of 1938.

Steel production less than this year.

Some slackening in the rate of automobile production.

Likely postponement of railroad orders for new equipment, despite accumulated demand.

A volume of construction slightly greater than this year.

CAR, TRUCKS DAMAGED IN CRASH

August Buss, Neenah, suffered a severe scalp laceration and body bruises when his car, shown above, was involved in an accident with two trucks on Highway 125 just west of the city yesterday noon. Buss was on his way to Neenah when his machine and a truck being driven in the opposite direction sideswiped each other. The Buss car careened off and collided with a second truck. Madison—Appointment of Senator Phil Nelson, Maple, to the grain and warehouse commission surprises no one familiar with legislative politics.

As far back as last January, when Nelson as a Republican helped a minority Progressive bloc organize the state senate, it was known that Nelson wanted the commission job in Superior, near his home, and it was generally expected that he would get it.

It was not known, or expected, however, that Senator E. M. Rowlands, the LaFollette floorleader, and supposed to be ambitious for higher state elective office, was to be appointed trades practices commissioner, which pays $5,000.

And since his appointment recently there has been some grumbling and criticism about evasion of constitutional limitations.

Rowlands personally is in high repute with even his Republican and Democratic colleagues, but administration critics point to a constitutional provision which reads like this:

"No member of the legislature shall, during the term for which he was elected, be appointed or elected to any civil office in the state, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during the term for which he was elected."

While these critics, point out, was appointed head of a department which was created by the special session of the 1937 legislature, in which he participated, and in which he was the chief lieutenant of the administration.

The Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance, always busily studying the public's business, is by its own statement "an incorporated, non-political, citizen-supported agency to study taxes to the end that they may be made reasonable and levied with the lightest possible burden consistent with good government."

The four-man paid staff of the Alliance spends its time digging into governmental records and telling the public, through the newspapers and its own news sheet, what it finds there.

Some of the telling is done in speeches, mostly by Director Paul N. Reynolds. Still more is done through the twice a month four-page "Wisconsin Taxpayer," a neat, newsy publication, and occasional booklets which go to all members and newspapers.

Currently the alliance is devoting its time and efforts to studying the cost of public welfare activities, relief, pensions and special aids.

Most recent alliance publication urged local officials to reduce their relief costs, and thus governmental budgets, through eliminating the employables from the relief rolls.

The alliance also publishes in digest form all laws passed by the legislature gives taxation statistics by counties and localities, and generally produced material of exceptional interest to all those interested in government and its problems.

Head of the energetic, ambitious organization is J. M. Conway of Green Bay.

Wisconsin's department of agriculture, which is about to try its origin back to the first laws passed when Wisconsin became a full-fledged state in 1848, is about to disappear.

According to the administration, the department has outlived its usefulness, and is about to be replaced by a modern, streamlined commission.

Formally called the department of agriculture and markets, but generally termed the farm board, it is one of the biggest arms of the state government machine, spends anywhere from $600,000 to $1,000,000 a biennium, depending on the generosity of the legislature, and has an amazing collection of duties.

Nominally the department has three fulltime $5,000 a year commissioners, who administer about 100 laws, and supervise the work of about 10 major divisions and countless minor ones.

Many of the laws, and even some of its divisions seem to have little to do with farming, but have been heaped upon the department's increasingly burdened shoulders by legislators who didn't know where to put them, and hesitated to create new departments.

Officials of the department are as numerous as its scattered duties. Only a small part of the department's 200 odd employees can occupy the main offices on the ground floor of the capitol. The rest are scattered about in nooks and corridors throughout the massive building, hard to find, and working in unsatisfactory quarters.

For the last two years the department has been limping along with two commissioners. Charles L. Hill and E. E. Schulteis. Another member, Joseph D. Bock, died two years ago and his seat has not been filled.

Moreover, to the sorrow and anger of such farmer-legislators as Senator John E. Cushman of Denmark, the two sitting commissioners, because they have had no legal standing for two years, are not as interested in the work of the department as they could be.

Hill's term has expired many months ago, while Mr. Schulteis is an interim appointee, never came before the senate for confirmation as the state constitution requires. Both men will soon retire, to be replaced by a single director who will take orders from a part-time board of farmers recently chosen under the reorganization act.

Bands From Pheasants Should be Sent to Conservation Commission

A new appeal has been issued by the state conservation commission to send in bands from pheasants which they have killed.

Each band which has been placed on a bird by the state department is numbered. On the commission's files, the time and place of the banding is recorded. When the band is returned, however, the movements of the bird can be studied.

Along with the band, hunters should send information about the place where the bird was shot, the date and any additional matter such as the kind of cover in which the pheasant was found. The commission, anxious to make pheasant hunting a permanent sport in the state, is endeavoring to learn as much as it can about the birds' habits and thus better conditions for them. Forty-thousand banded pheasants were released in Wisconsin woods this year.

In a bulletin that covers pheasant raising in Wisconsin thoroughly and explains facts about the bird, Gilbert Gistead, formerly with the state conservation commission and now doing similar work in Minnesota, points out that the pheasant

Farmers Enjoy Pied Piper Poem but Put Their Faith in Poisoned Bait

The Pied Piper of Hamelin, so goes the poem written in 1812 by Browning, charmed the rats by his piping into the river Weser, where they drowned, but Outagamie county farmers will lure them to their death with poisoned rations which include a meat and fish diet.

It may be that some of the farmers are not familiar with the success of the Pied Piper, or perhaps they do wish to take the consequences that Browning tells of in his poem. The Pied Piper, according to the poem, with his magic piping drew the 120 children of the village to a cavern in a hill, which closed upon them forever after the town refused to pay his price.

At any rate, the farmers are putting their faith in the poisoned bait if the number of requests for it can be taken as an indication. The bait will be distributed Wednesday by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent. Last year over 2,500 packages of rat banquet food were distributed.

Mixed With Poison

Both meat and fish food has been mixed with Red Squill poison which means "sudden death" to all rats that partake. Unwelcome because they menace health, sanitation and comfort, these pests should be destroyed early in the indoor season while they are few in number, the county agent says.

He advises that rats and mice in homes usually can be exterminated by baited traps, provided their access to other food in the household can be barred.

In placing the poisoned bait, care must be exercised, of course, to protect young children and also household pets from it. The squill poison has the advantage of leading rodents to die in the open rather than in their nests, hence their bodies can be found promptly and disposed of properly.

Cats and dogs that are well fed are not usually troubled from consuming this red bait, but Swanson advises that pets be locked up for several days after the bait has been placed.

Six Reporters Named To Scout Press Club

950 Projects are Sponsored by WPA In Last 2 Years

Work for Women Provided on 261 Jobs Under the Program

During the last two years, 950 projects have been sponsored by local governmental authorities for the employment of WPA workers in the Green Bay district which includes Outagamie, Brown, Calumet, Door, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Marinette, Oconto, Shawano and Winnebago counties, according to Mark Muth, WPA district director. Of these projects, 689 were construction projects of various types, and 261 were projects for the employment of women and professional workers.

Construction projects included the repair of secondary roads, building new roads, street improvement, sewers and water mains, sidewalks, repair and construction of public buildings and schools, building and improving parks, athletic fields, and recreational facilities, construction and repair of bridges and dams, drainage work, lake and stream improvement and by the women's and professional division of the WPA included sewing, knitting, educational, clerical, recreational and modernization of public roads.

Road Improvement
Actual work on WPA projects started about September 15, 1935. Summary of work accomplished up to October 1, 1937 shows the farm-to-market road projects leading all other type of work in the district. Work on these projects including grading, ditching, roadside beautification and surfacing with gravel.

A total of 1059.5 miles of secondary roads were improved by WPA workers to Oct. 1. Brown county led in the total number of miles improved, with 343 miles completed. Oconto county was second with 245 miles, and Marinette county next with 145 miles. Calumet county has completed 74 miles, Door county 58.2 miles, Kewaunee 6.5 miles, Manitowish county 69.7 miles, Outagamie county 56 miles, Shawano county 92 miles, and Winnebago county 20 miles.

As part of the regular county road improvement, 17 new bridges were constructed in the district, 12 of which were of concrete and 5 of wood.

The construction of storm and sanitary sewer and water mains was also an important part of the works program in this district. While the major portion of this type of work was done in larger cities, many villages have added modern sanitary facilities by taking advantage of the opportunity to employ WPA workers. In the ten counties of District No. 2, 168,717 linear feet of sewers and 62,336 feet of water mains were completed by Oct. 1. In Outagamie county 30,325 feet of sewers and 19,427 feet of water mains were laid.

Lay Sidewalks
A total of 589,439 square feet of concrete sidewalks were laid in the 10 counties, and WPA workers constructed 35,188 linear feet of new concrete curb and gutter. New ornamental lighting systems were installed on three miles of city streets in Oconto and DePere.

Conservation work in the district included extensive remodeling at the Surgeon Bay fish hatchery; construction of 4,496 fish protection devices such as brush refuges, alder tangles and minnow spawners; 16 miles of telephone line constructed in Marinette county; 22,560 linear feet of stream bed improvement; 42,600 feet of fire lanes and truck trails; general improvement to 15 lakes; and construction of broaders, hoppers and pens for raising pheasants.

Three water conservation dams of reinforced concrete construction have been completed in the district to date.

Improve Parks
A total of 85 parks and playgrounds have been improved in the district. The work involved tree surgery, removing dead trees, trimming, planting new trees, the construction of 23 tennis courts, several baseball diamonds, grandstands, both houses and shelter houses.

In eight of the ten counties of the district, 21,599 tons of lime was crushed and 20,007 cubic yards of marl dug, and delivered to farmers for agricultural use.

WPA workers have painted 91 air markers on roofs of buildings in towns, cities and villages throughout the district.

Although most lives of Shakespeare consist of two or more volumes, all that is known of him need take up no more than 10 pages.

It's Much Easier Stopped in the First or Dry Stage Than in the Second or Third Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages.
(1) The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours.

(3) The Mucous Secretion Stage. A cold is twice as easy to stop in the first stage as in the second or third.
In fact, to let a cold run beyond the first stage may be to invite trouble.

Problems of Rural Schools Will be Studied at Meet

Outagamie County Teachers Will Attend State Convention

Rural schools and their problems will receive serious consideration from the Wisconsin Education association when it assembles in Milwaukee Thursday for a 3-day convocation. Henry J. Van Straten, Outagamie county superintendent, and the majority of county rural school teachers will attend the convention.

Resolutions have been drafted for presentation to delegates urging: A program pointing to the reorganization of administrative units in the rural areas of the state. Consideration of adequate state legislation for better service in rural areas to the out-of-school youth.

Establishment of a legalized system of high school transportation for non-resident students. Another resolution to be presented recommends a comprehensive and penetrating evaluation of the place of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in present-day education, and urges the association's executive committee to take steps toward such a study.

Dykstra to Speak
In addition to the speaking program which includes Sinclair Lewis, novelist; President Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin; Lady Drummond Hay, and Columnist Drew Pearson, the convention program lists many table discussions, classified according to subjects taught. Most of the round table leaders are recognized Wisconsin specialists in the particular subjects.

No small part of the convention will be an exhibit in the Milwaukee auditorium by 63 companies dealing in books, pianos, maps, visual equipment, and miscellaneous school supplies. The Wisconsin prison industries will have a showing of prison-made goods. Alumni gatherings will feature the social side of the convention. Many school groups will assemble for breakfasts and luncheons.

Lutz park improvement, formerly handled by a council committee, has been turned over to the park board and it is expected that the work will employ most of the men part of the winter. The project will save money which would have been paid out in unemployment compensation when the fall clean-up was finished.

The men are engaged in tree trimming and raking leaves in all parks. Turf surrounding trees and shrubs is being cut and shrubs are being replanted. Fish have been removed from the pools at Alicia and Erb parks, the superintendent said. The golf course was closed for the season Oct. 15.

A total of $1,643.08 was spent in park maintenance during October, according to the monthly report. Of the total $926.38 was spent in Erb park; $102.09 in city park; $7 in Packard park; $137.59 in Pierce park; $155.45 in general; $135.81 in Alicia park; and $1.95 in Jones park.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor
New York — Next time you are looking for an original remark to express your feelings when breakfast eggs are not done to taste, say: "These must be some of those 10 to the 72d power eggs."

This will display knowledge of an amazing chemical discovery which has not yet drifted far outside the laboratories. The discovery is the high speed of "denaturation" of proteins. The turning white of an egg in cooking is an example.

It appears this sort of change occurs at a speed requiring astronomical figures to describe. Ten to the 72d power is such a figure. Written out it is 10 followed by 71 ciphers.

This means the change to white occurs at the rate of that many molecules a cubic centimeter a second. Eggs have not been tested but they fall in the same class as other proteins with this phenomenal speed of change.

It comes when temperature or other conditions are just right. Housewives have always known that eggs could do this quick turn trick. The mechanism of it, which chemists have now worked out, does not give any clue on when to turn off the fire.

Clean Up Work Is Started in Parks

Lutz Park Improvement Gives Added Employment to Regular Crew

Improvement work at Lutz park was started last week by part of the park crew and when the fall clean-up is completed, the remaining employees will be transferred to the winter project, according to Harold Jerke, superintendent of parks.

Lutz park improvement, formerly handled by a council committee, has been turned over to the park board and it is expected that the work will employ most of the men part of the winter. The project will save money which would have been paid out in unemployment compensation when the fall clean-up was finished.

Smaller Acreages In Prospect for Fall Vegetables

Potato Prices Expected to Remain Fairly Stable Next Few Months

The 1937 shipping season for vegetables is nearing its close with a near record production of most crops and with farm prices generally lower than those of a year ago, the bureau of agricultural economics said today in its current vegetable situation report.

The bureau also stated that indications point to reduced acreages of vegetables for the 1938 shipping season. A somewhat smaller acreage of commercial early potatoes and of many of the fall and winter truck crops is in prospect. During the next few months the bureau expects the prices of potatoes to remain fairly stable, but prices of sweet potatoes, onions, and cabbage "probably will show their usual seasonal advance between now and next spring." Potato prices in terminal markets recently had been 90 cents to $1 per 100 pounds below the corresponding

Roosevelt Must Trust Business, Lawrence States

Economics System Can't Function Unless They Cooperate

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—There's a curious psychology developing inside the Roosevelt administration, particularly among some of the so-called "left wing" economists and advisers, who are talking now about the "practical" importance of a new policy of cooperation between government and business.

The immediate significance of this trend is that many of the New Dealers are being won over to the notion that, however interesting the blueprint may be for a utopian world or a reform era, the people who have to make it work—the business men themselves—must be sold on the fundamentals.

Can the president buy the hatchet and get together with business? The effort has been made several times, but each time it has been followed by more bitterness and more attacks by Mr. Roosevelt, which, in turn, have engendered a counter-trend of bitterness on the part of the business men.

Certainly the economic system cannot function unless government and business fully understand each other, or at least agree as to what the policies of the government mean in economic terms.

The events of the last few weeks, indicating a depression in business is here or well under way toward a much more serious situation a few months hence, might seem to have brought the president to a realization of the gravity of the whole problem. But when he insists on talking in political terms, when he brings up his old campaign vocabulary about the one-third of the population who are supposed to be "ill-housed, ill-nourished and ill-clad," it is apparent that the president is not ready to talk in practical terms with the business men of the country, but is still bent on harassing them for political purposes.

Doing Damage
From whose viewpoint, asks the president, are the published reports coming about the importance of the undistributed surplus tax? The inference which Mr. Roosevelt plainly wishes drawn is that, if you talk about tax revision, you are thinking only of the profiteers and that you cannot possibly have any humanitarian instincts. As a matter of fact, the day is not far distant when some demagogue will rise to prove that Mr. Roosevelt, well-intentioned though he is, has done far more damage to the average man and his future than any single man in our present generation.

And the demagogue will not have to prove his assertion any more concretely than Mr. Roosevelt proves the many loose statements he makes about the economic royalists. But if such a demagogue were so careful as to adduce facts, all he would have to do is take the direct increases in the cost of living caused by the Roosevelt administration—the diminution in real wages—and tell what it has meant already. Also, all the demagogue would have to do is take the reports coming in on unemployment in various parts of the nation and show that they are traceable to an artificial stimulus carried on for four years without the slightest regard to a permanent substitute motive power for the economic structure.

What creates the jobs that make employment possible? Mr. Roosevelt will some day be asked that question on the stump as he seeks to defend his policies. The job-makers of America are the people who have saved their own money or have made a reputation for honest investment of the funds of others who have saved money. The records of the last few years show that capital has been frightened—the job-makers have been driven off, is an administration friendly to the average man if it scares away the job-makers?

Mr. Roosevelt is right when he asks from whose viewpoint the cry for tax revision is coming, but it is wrong when he assumes that the question is a one-sided one. Every bit of evidence by recognized economists shows that the tax burden goes down the line to the persons of smallest income. The twentieth century fund has just completed studies showing the high cost of hidden taxes to the man of lowest income. This would seem to dispose of the argument for the broadening of the base by the income tax method and would seem to argue in favor of reducing the cost of articles which the poor man buys.

Roosevelt's Interest
Is Mr. Roosevelt really interested in the poor? For four years he has spent vast sums, but today unemployment is growing rapidly and the real wages in the pay envelope are being reduced. The proposed minimum wage and hour legislation has a lofty purpose, but it will bear hardest on the poor man. As for crop control, the administration is talking about levying processing taxes to bear the cost. This means taking money from one group of poor people who can ill afford to pay the processing taxes and paying it to the lowest income groups in the farm population.

The only way that there can possibly be a real interest in the plight of the poor man is to make it possible for the total business of the country to increase so that there is more production. The home market alone, it is conceded, can absorb more goods. Purchasing power is generated by an increase in wealth produced and in the utilization of capital for the creation of jobs.

Complete Annual Dental Inspection At Kaukauna Schools

Kaukauna — The annual dental inspection of all Kaukauna schools, public and parochial, started a week ago, has been completed, according to Miss Cecil Flynn, city nurse. The high school was not inspected. The inspection is the first step in the operation of the dental system. Each pupil inspected who is in need of dental work is given a card on which the parents are asked to indicate whether they will have the family dentist do the work, or wish to have it done by the city clinic. These cards have not been collected as yet.

Kaukauna Eleven Given Day's Rest

Begin Preparations Today For Armistice Day Game at Appleton

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school gridders enjoyed their first day off of the year yesterday as a reward for their homecoming victory over Neenah last Saturday. This afternoon, preparations began for the Armistice Day game with Appleton on the Terror's home field, and will be continued Wednesday. Due to the State Teacher's convention Thursday and Friday, Wednesday's practice will be the last of the week, Coach Paul E. Little said yesterday. All the high school players came out of the Neenah game in good shape, and will be in good physical condition for the year's final game.

With the Kaws almost certain to be defeated by the much heavier Appleton eleven, there is much discussion about town as to just why the game is scheduled every year. Most people seem to think that, as long as the schools are in different conferences, well enough should be left alone, and if Kaukauna desires an Armistice Day game, schedule it with one of its conference rivals. Last year's Kaukauna High school team, the Northwestern conference champions, were easily defeated by Appleton, and, with Appleton better this year and Kaukauna but in third place, another rout is in prospect.

Magician to Perform For Kaukauna Students

Kaukauna — The second iycum program of the year at Kaukauna High school will be given Nov. 23, featuring Evans Brown, magician and musician, James F. Cavanaugh, superintendent of schools, said yesterday. The first of the series was given Oct. 19, and presented explorer Captain Carl Von Hoffman. Other numbers scheduled include the Cushing Duo, Jan. 4; Jessie Ray Taylor, character imitations, Jan. 14; Glenn Morris, scientific lecturer, March 28; and the year's final presentation, the Ambassador quartet, May 7.

The programs were selected by Cavanaugh and Olin G. Dryer, high school principal.

Commercial Bowlers to Battle for First Place

Kaukauna—First place will be at stake tonight in the Commercial bowling league when the Gertz Tavern five battles the Mellow Brews, and Hopfensperger's take on the Gustman five in the feature matches of the evening. Other pairings have the Pantry Lunch and the Little Chute Bottlers fighting to keep out of the cellar, and the Miller High Lifes playing the Post Office quintet.

Attempts to Schedule Cross Country Race Fail

Kaukauna—Plans for cross country matches with other schools have fallen through, and thus high school harriers disbanded this week, Coach Paul E. Little said yesterday. A dozen runners had been practicing for several weeks in hopes of scheduling a contest, but no schools could be found willing to run, Little added.

Report Increase in Kaukauna Boat Traffic

Kaukauna—A total of 266 boats passed through Kaukauna during the month of October, according to a report by the bridge attendants. This number represents a slight increase over the number a year ago. Prospects for November indicate a record number of passages, attendants said.

Legion Post Will Hold 'Booster Night' Session

Kaukauna—The American Legion will hold a regular meeting at 8 o'clock this evening at the Legion hall. The meeting has been designated as "booster night," and will be devoted to discussion of Legion activities.

done by the sec for purposes other than attacking fraud or whether it is due to the generally unfavorable market situation created by the unbalanced budget and higher-miss methods of handling fiscal finances, the fact remains that capital isn't being turned over sufficiently to create new industries and new jobs or to take care of the shortages in goods and services which America has been experiencing for seven years.

An increase in purchasing power—indeed, a real upward swing of unprecedented proportions—will come some day when either the present incumbent of the White House or some future president begins to realize that you never make the business machinery of the country function by bludgeoning, but by mutual trust between government and business and by a policy of practical cooperation, with emphasis on the word "practical." The Loyal Order of Moose and Women of the Moose celebrated the annual Mooseheart day last night with a covered dish supper and program. A short business meeting was also held. Anita Kastell, Esther Promer and Mary Hoogman were the committee in charge.

Freshman Team Loses To St. Mary Yearlings

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna High school freshmen lost their second straight football game when they fell before the St. Mary's of Menasha frosh on the high school field yesterday afternoon, 7-6. The Kaws scored early in the first quarter after a sustained drive. Skeneador going around end for eight yards and a touchdown. Grissman's attempted dropkick for the extra point was blocked.

St. Mary's scored in the third quarter after a long pass had put them in position to take the ball over on several reverses. Many of the Kaws gridders showed improvement over their performance against the Little Chute freshmen. Coach Ves Hanby particularly singled out Vandenberg for his fine all round play.

Appoint Students to Conduct Candy Sales

Kaukauna—A resolution will be presented to the council at its meeting tonight asking that the contractors building the sewage disposal plant be declared in default, it was decided at a meeting of the board of public works last night. Failure to complete the job in contracted time, which was last March, carries a penalty of $25 for each day overtime.

Brickwork Under Way At Vaudette Theater

Kaukauna—Construction of Kaukauna's new theatre, the Vaudette, on E. Second street, is proceeding according to schedule, the brickwork being started this week. Although no definite date for the completion of the building has been set it is expected to be open for business before this Christmas.

Basketball Aspirants In Regular Sessions

Kaukauna—With but one game remaining of the football schedule, after which the basketball players on the grid squad will join them, basketball candidates are getting down to work in earnest. Three scrimmages a week are being held by the prospective stars in an effort to develop talent to take the place of last year's veterans, who have been graduated. With about a dozen players out now and half a dozen more expected when the football team disbands prospects for a successful season look good.

Those who are now practicing include Leland Scherer, Paul Koch, Clifford Kalista, Jack Hatchell, Joseph Block, Donald Biseix, John Grogan, Neil McCarty, Robert Stanelle, Kenneth Busse and Robert Eiting.

Kaukauna — Three Kaukauna nurses will leave Wednesday to attend the Wisconsin State Nurses association sixth district meeting at New London. N., and as chief speaker Judge Edgar V. Werner of Appleton. The topic of the meeting is "Know Thyself."

Gerend with 176. Others in the select group are C. Schell 167, D. Bolinske 162, B. Lamers 170, H. Haupt 167, D. Farrell 162, H. Hass 163, R. Mahankie 173, A. Bloch 162, C. Splan 160 and F. Driessen 175.

Parochial School Team Will Play at Green Bay

Kaukauna — St. Mary's gridders will seek their eighth victory in nine starts Sunday when they travel to Green Bay to play the Annunciation eleven, according to Coach Jack Licht. Several changes are being made in the team's offense, the most important of which is the transference of Hanson, a big tackle, to the backfield, where his blocking ability will be used.

School Board to Hear Report on City Stadium

A report of the committee on the proposed construction of a city stadium at Spencer street field will be heard at a regular meeting of the school board of education at 7:30 Wednesday evening at Lincoln school. The committee, comprised of Seymour Gmeiner, Dr. G. T. Hegner and C. K. Boyer, met with a similar committee of the common council Thursday. Problems concerning the construction of the new senior high school also will be considered.

When Browning was asked what his "Sordello" meant, he is said to have replied: "When I wrote it, God and Browning knew; now only God knows."

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Council to Study Proposed Changes In Street Names

Report of Special Committee on Calendar for Meeting Tonight

Kaukauna — On addition to the ordinance amending the electrical code, several other matters will come before the council at its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the municipal building.

At the last meeting several other reforms were suggested to the council and referred to the ordinance committee, of which Alderman Theodore Seggelink is chairman. These included giving Kaukauna one street commissioner instead of two, and thus decreasing expenses. At the last meeting City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel was asked to prepare a detailed report in regard to the engineering costs of the new sewage plant, which will be presented tonight. At the last meeting a report on the estimated costs and the actual costs of engineering work was read, and, as the actual costs were higher than the estimate, the councilmen asked that the increased costs be explained in detail.

To Submit Report
A report will be presented to the council by a committee composed of Aldermen Jule Mertes, G. S. Mulholland and Otto M. Ludke, appointed to confer on the renaming and naming of several of Kaukauna's streets. The move was started when Kaukauna was asked to name the new superhighway through the city, the question of names then coming before the council. It was realized that some of Kaukauna's streets had more than one name, and thus confused both residents and visitors. One continuous Kaukauna street now has three names, Depot, Green and Meade. The committee will recommend that the name be made Green for the entire street.

The finance committee, of which Alderman G. S. Mulholland is chairman, is working on a plan by which each city agency's expenditures will be strictly budgeted during the next fiscal year, and may present their recommendations at tonight's meeting.

ALKALIZE THE EASY PHILLIPS WAY

The quick way to alkalize is this: Take two teaspoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after eating and drinking. Or, when among others—take two Phillips' Tablets that come in a small flat tin you carry in purse or vest pocket. —You do it unnoticed. Relief is almost immediate. "Gas," nausea, acid breath and other offensive symptoms leave. —That "stuffed" feeling and pains from "acid indigestion" cease to annoy. You feel great. This is the way, we believe, more doctors use than any other when alkalizing upset stomach.

RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES

The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorizing the advance in railroad freight rates was a lengthy but capably written article dealing minutely with difficult and intricate problems, some of which can only be solved in speculative fashion.

The Commission remarked upon this fact. It conceded the existence of a wide gap between theory and practice.

The theory is that if a railroad needs more revenue the rates may be raised, and men originally thought they could figure out almost to the dollar the added income.

But in practice some unexpected imps are bound to interfere. The reasons for a substantial recession in business in the past history of the railroads in the face of increased rates are not easy to codify simply because so many of them cannot even be found. Some men are moved by anger and resentment at the increase and adopt substitute modes of travel. Others subject to the same reactions, simply do without. As a result the use of commodities may fall, the merchant may be hurt, the railroad surely is hurt, and when the total of commerce is thus reduced the injury is extensive even though its limits may not be traced.

In order to avoid the sometimes disastrous consequence of a raise in rates the commission permitted that raise to be applied almost exclusively to coal, iron and oil, upon the assumption that business of this sort cannot be so easily diverted from our great rail carriers as other business might be.

There will be no difficulty in persuading the public generally of the necessity of the raise granted and additional raises. People are blind indeed who do not recognize the ruling in the Interstate Commerce Commission as merely an arc in a spiral, and a spiral that will be endless until we arrive at balanced budgets and the twilight of our spendthrifts.

SOME ONE'S MANNERS NEED A MANICURE

Europe has always had a very good opinion of its manners.

For much more than a hundred years men of many European nations have shaken their heads sadly at upstart countries like America and said, "No chivalry." We were rude, uncouth. We did not click our heels and bow deeply from the waist nor kiss milady's hand. Neither did we understand polite society.

The nations of Europe now are acting towards each other with that snobbish pique that was said to enliven Newport in the earlier days when our queens of society were reading up on French etiquette books. We note that when England has a little trouble with the grand miffi or when any Arab or Egyptian leader publicly denounces its purposes or seeks to cross swords with it, Italy with a fine flourish of trumpets and a Roman salute invites the one with whom England is tussling to visit its domain and partake of its hospitality. Forthwith English periodicals choke with rage, and probably Mussolini laughs in derision.

But now it is time for a New Jersey mosquito to bite Italy. France has so far declined to have her ambassador to Rome designated as attending the Court of the King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia. If you call the Italian ruler by any other name he won't know what is meant. There is a saying that a man ought to be known by any name he wishes to carry. And what difference can it possibly make whether France calls Victor Emmanuel the Emperor of Ethiopia or the ruling brigand of that country?

It is a fine piece of child's play—Mussolini waiting expectantly for France to use the expression, "Emperor of Ethiopia," whereupon he will turn to the Italian masses and say, "See, France admits it," whereupon the milling millions will loudly cheer at their victory, although victory of what no one will know.

We rather think it will continue to be agreeable for America to be known as a rude and uncouth country quite unacquainted with the customs of hushed salons and the manners of the high-born.

A JUSTICE DISQUALIFIES HIMSELF

Some of our alleged liberals preach to us that we are anchored to old fogey notions and the time has come to loosen restraints.

One of those restraints was loosened in a beautiful marble building at Washington occupied by the supreme court and known generally as a temple of justice.

For never before in the history of this country did a justice of the supreme court decline to participate in the prayer of a black man who claimed his civil liberties had been denied him.

It was a humiliating spectacle.

And yet the spectacle, we must admit, would have been more humiliating had the justice participated.

One who participated or fomented or supported the flogging and lynching of negroes over a period of years thought he might be in an awkward position if he passed upon the plea of a member of the negro race.

In this respect he is right.

And if he ever participates in any case involving a negro, to say nothing of the whites his organization condemned, Justice Black would find himself in an equally awkward position.

Possibly the President may revamp his plan of revising the supreme court so that we may make it a tribunal of about a hundred members. Then we could have a long questionnaire to be answered by all litigants—Are you a Catholic? Are you a Jew. Are you a negro? Are you in a business with a Catholic, a Jew or a negro? Do you speak to such people when you meet them?

Thus we might divide the supreme tribunal into branch tribunals, some to try cases involving Catholics, others hear cases involving Jews and still others listen to the complaints of colored people.

Yes, indeed, we have slipped the hawser that held us to the old fogey ways. But is the panorama so pleasing?

AND WHAT IS PERSONALITY?

Elaborate tests made of the Dionne quintuplets by psychologists from the University of Toronto recently published show a sameness remarkable even among multiple births.

The hair is not only of the same color but reveals the same wave. The eyes are identical. With teeth and contour, with nose and stature, one cannot be told from another.

But when the physical is abandoned and the investigator enters into what may be called the spiritual he is quick to note a clear difference.

The report is that one of these children is extremely "social-minded." She is a good mixer, probably would make an unbeatable alderman some day. For, in fact, she evidences a winning satisfaction in talking to others, in listening to them, in observing them, is entranced with their smiles, their ideas, perhaps their stories and the other forms of entertainment they provide. But one of her sisters is pointed out by the psychologists as nearly at the other extreme. She is described as shy and timid. She is not happy on someone's knee. She does not care to listen to their stories nor is she interested in observing their actions. Publicity to her is more than a bore, it is a penalty.

The inclinations, tendencies, and preferences of people are generally collected under the word "personality." And because personalities are so markedly dissimilar, never the same, there is thus presented not merely the difficulty in herding people together or tailor-suiting them to some particular design, but the utter impossibility of ever accomplishing any such aim.

Charles M. Schwab, master of Bethlehem Steel, wrote in his Ten Commandments of Success, "Personality is to a man what perfume is to a flower." He meant to convey the thought that however attractive a flower might be to the eye its odor could make it poisonous and that even were it of indifferent beauty it might be lifted to great importance on the marts of trade if the odor it gave off were pleasant.

Those of our philosophers most transfixed with the conclusion that man is the strangest of all animals have declared that personality is "the secret of the universe." That may be putting it broadly but certain it is that personality is the secret of humanity.

And Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote in The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table:

"There are three Johns: 1, the real John; known only to his Maker; 2, John's ideal John, never the real one, and often very unlike him; 3, Thomas's ideal John, never the real John, nor John's John, but often very unlike either."

Opinions Of Others

MAY WE NEVER KNOW
 A new law in something or other—perhaps in inordinate desire for fleeting publicity, idle curiosity or thoughtless disregard for the sacredness of a secret that the nation hopes to keep inviolate for eternity—seems plainly discernible in the announced attempt of a small group of war veterans to seek upon the battlefields of France evidence that America's Unknown Soldier was a member of their regiment.

Who was he?

May the question never be answered, for in the hearts of those bereaved by the slaughter that was to end war, there may live forever the thought that he may be their own—that Flanagan fellow from South Boston, that Cohen boy from New York's East Side, that silent Smith lad, the minister's son from the wheat fields of Kansas or that singing Booker Washington Jackson, who turned in a Pullman porter's uniform for the khaki of a fighting man at the first call.

One of these or any one of the other thousands who did not return he might have been. He is the symbol for the sacrifice of them all—the heroes whose bodies lie in the ever green cemeteries of the Old World or in the tenderly kept graves of their homeland—the men of the North, South, East and West, and too, the symbol of those loved ones who waited at home and in vain.

His name? His race? His religion? His regiment? May we never know!—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

SCIENCE had better drop everything else for a few days and find out for sure whether the earth hasn't tipped on its axis. The cold Wisconsin climate when there comes a thunderstorm followed by fair and warmer and I am swatting flies again in the office? . . . it is all extremely difficult to understand . . .

Pickups over the weekend; with such powerhouse tackles and ends, it is just as well for Northwestern's opponents that the wingback system used there does not provide for extra blockers downfield . . . such material using the Stuhldreher type of offense would be terrific . . . an announcement at Madison during the period between halves at the game that Mrs. Roosevelt would speak in the city was greeted with a loud round of boos . . . this is neither polite nor fair, although it is likely that the people had her husband in mind . . . it may be some indication of the current trend, although I wonder what the CCC boys, who come to the games in uniform thought about it . . . some smart floor wax salesman should make a lot of money at Lawrence college right before the next dance held in the big gym . . .

THE OLD FARM

In memory's eye I see two tall, straight poplars, A mailbox perched upon a wooden post, A long lane leading to an old brick farm house, The moss-rose bed that was our mother's nest. The orchard with its rows of rows of fruit trees,

In the center stood a giant "sour crab," With story book beneath its widespread branches. Soon changed to rosy hue a world once drab. Another long lane took us to the pasture, The creek in which we used to swim and fish. The wood-lot where we gathered sweet wild berries,

Smothered in cream—a luscious breakfast dish. I seem to hear the lowing of the cattle, And see the horse with coat of midnight black. A white star softly shining on her forehead; One day we sold her—that night she came back. When morning dawned we found her in the stable.

All unconcerned in her accustomed stall, When her new owner came once more to claim her. We swallowed hard, but tears began to fall, Within the walls of that old-fashioned farm house.

There was no show of wealth, no hint of style, But who'd forget its deep and solid comfort, Or Mother's tender and heart-warming smile?

It would be nice if the Little Bundle had titled her poem. Its present heading is a temporary affair supplied by me and is not supposed to be charged against the contributor.

A Verse for Today
 By Anne Campbell

"WINDOW-WISHING"
 When lovely Autumn sets the style
 With her own gold and blue,
 Then you and I will "window-wish"
 Upon the Avenue!

The stores are filled with pretty clothes!
 Our pocketbooks are flat.
 We "window-wish" for gowns like those,
 And choose our winter hat!

But nobody who strolls along
 Is happier than we,
 For in our hearts there is a song,
 And true felicity!

We cannot jingle any coins
 Or buy one thing that's new,
 But oh, what fun to "window-wish"
 Upon the Avenue!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
 Tuesday, Nov. 1, 1927

Elaborate plans for a safe and sane Halloween in Chicago went askew Monday night and the celebrations were declared the most tumultuous in years. Two boys and a woman were shot, a policeman was stabbed, street car service was interrupted and the city fire department was flooded with false alarms.

Halloween parties in Appleton lowered street lights in various parts of the city. Ringing of the McKinley school bell for more than half an hour disturbed Fourth ward residents. Investigators were foiled in attempts to locate the "pullers" for a rope had been fastened to the bell which was more than a block long.

Gilbert Krueger, son of Hugo Krueger, Neenah, and a member of the class of 1930 at the University of Wisconsin, has been selected the winner in the homecoming button design contest at the university.

Howard Copp, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Copp, Kaukauna, will represent Kaukauna High school at a Teachers-Student conference in Milwaukee Thursday and Friday.

George Wettengel, Appleton, spoke at a meeting of the New London Rotary club Monday noon.

That Lawrence is being recognized as a formidable athletic institution is shown by a Chicago report that a new conference is proposed with Notre Dame, Marquette and Wabash as charter members and Lawrence and Michigan Agriculture college as possible members.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kranszsch, 803 Second avenue, who on Sept. 21 became the parents of triplets, two boys and a girl, have written to Governor F. E. McGovern to see if the state does not pay a "bounty" on triplets.

Rudolph Stammer, town of Black Creek, was injured in a runaway accident yesterday when his team bolted and threw him out of his rig at the corner of Drew and Pacific streets.

Jack Shinnery won the silver baseball offered by Frank Hyde for the best pitching record in the Appleton team. He won 18 games and lost 10 for a .643 percentage.

"Soccer ball" is the new game introduced at the high school by Coach Aldred Miles. Andrew Sharp left for Fond du Lac yesterday where he will open a roller skating rink in the Coliseum.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

CAUSE AND CURE OF CYNO-PHOBIA

Some neighbors of ours, writes a dweller in Paradise, have a playful Collie. The dog is harmless and friendly toward everybody. But early in the summer our two year old son toddled past the neighbor's yard and the big dog came barking and galloping toward him in his playful way. He brushed against the boy, then turned and whirled in a circle in the yard, and again came barking at him. He did not bite or injure the boy but just frightened him terribly. The child cried for two hours before we could quiet him. Prior to this he had never shown any great concern about dogs, cats or other animals. Ever since he cringes in fear whenever he sees a dog or thinks he sees one far away and begins to cry and tremble. Frequently at night in his sleep he screams "Woo-Woo" (his word for dog). How can we cure him of this fear of dogs? It is becoming embarrassing. Nowadays it seems that nearly every family must have a dog and a car whether they have a baby or not. The question should interest many of our readers.

If the boy had a dog of his own, perhaps the antics of the playful Collie would not have frightened him. Even if the boy's parents, guardians or teachers were not themselves more or less obsessed with cynophobia (unreasonable fear of dogs), the incident would not have made such a deep impression. We are assuming the boy is mentally normal.

If the child's parents, elders or tutors are themselves obsessed with cynophobia it is impossible for them to conceal their morbid fear from the child. If father or mother, or nurse or aunt or grampa is afraid of any particular thing the child will inevitably be afraid of it too.

This is best illustrated by the widely prevalent ophidiophobia (fear of snakes). This fear is not instinctive, as many imagine. Until taught by the ignorant, superstitious parent or nurse or tutor to fear and hate all "horrid crawling reptiles," an infant shows no more fear than one does of another infant or a kitten or a bird. If the parent or guardian of the child is intelligent and able to distinguish the comparatively rare venomous from the common harmless kind, the child will not only acquire no cruel hatred of snakes but may well learn to admire them for their beauty and to enjoy the study and observation of their natural habits.

Let the child's dreams be filled with the delightful antics of his own pet puppy. That is the way to save him from degenerating into a cruel cynophobia. Every child, every little boy at any rate, is entitled to own a dog. When the child is two or three years of age is the ideal time to introduce the dog—a puppy of the type the child prefers not a fancy pedigreed animal but just a dog.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS
No Apple Powder
 I have tried at many stores to get dry apple powder which you have recommended more than once for infants, children or adults with acute diarrhea or gastro-enteritis. Nobody has it. (Mrs. H. W. A.)

Answer—Fresh raw apple pulp serves the purpose—the patient, infant, child or adult, should take no other food for one or two days, may take from one to a dozen apples daily, and for beverage may have some weak tea without sugar or milk. European physicians have used dry apple powder in place of fresh raw apple pulp because the apple powder is available at all seasons. Fresh apple in season, or from cold storage out of season, is always available in this country. The value of this exclusive apple diet for acute intestinal disturbances of young infants, children or adults, is described in the pectin in apple. That is conjectural. The prompt relief of the acute diarrhea is a gratifying fact.

Change
 Just going thru the "change," Suffers terribly from headache in the back and top of head and worries so for fear she will not live thru it and is of course very nervous. (Mrs. H. L. G.)

Answer—The woman worries needlessly. On request (enclosed stamped addressed envelope) I'll be glad to send her a monograph on the menopause or "change of life" which will at least reassure her. Mention the headache, too, and I'll include some advice about that.

Your Birthday

"SCORPIO"
 If November 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a. m. from 1 to 3 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a. m. from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m.

If you will count your blessings today you may find you have ample reason for rejoicing and your outlook on life will be brighter. Out may come any of some argument today with flying colors, providing you succeed in keeping your temper. You are likely to discover if you have suffered a loss of any kind, that whatever it is it can be replaced. Snap judgement is apt to prove to be very poor judgement today, so make no decision hastily. You may have a strong temptation to do some bluffing this day. Be careful in this respect, for bluffs may be called, and embarrassment is bound to follow. It will be wise, if you are requested to cooperate in any constructive movement, to do so if you are convinced it is logical. Married and engaged couples, as well as those courting or being courted, should avoid making any kind of silly remark in reply to a serious question for this is going to cause many cases of squabbling on this date.

If a woman and November 3 is your birthday, your love for entertaining and congenial friends should help make you a social favorite. You ought to have a great amount of personal charm. You will have to be careful, however, that flattery does not turn your head and cause you to offend some very worthwhile friends. Time seems to be an element that may involve you in much trouble unless you learn to do things in a methodical manner. You ought to always plan your day and make it a rule to be punctual in keeping appointments. Some bright idea may make you a rich woman. As a designer, interior decorator, author, actress, musician or singer, you may make a wonderful reputation. It may however, be through a happy marriage that luxuries and plenty of money will make you an enviable one. The child born on November 3, can be expected to be exceptionally bright. Children born on this date seem to be predestined to be numbered among some of life's greatest successes. Usually of a happy disposition they make friends readily and are popular.

If a man, and November 3, is your natal day, generous, sympathetic and loyal in your friendships, you should be greatly beloved. As a doctor, lawyer, banker, writer, actor, or broker, your chances for making money are unlimited.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It should not be surprising if Secretary Ickes feels that he is about to be deprived of some of the laurels of wiping out city slums.

He is in somewhat the same position as England and France were when they fought Germany to a near deadlock for three years and then saw the United States come in to "win the war."

For four years Ickes and his housing administration have hacked away at slum areas, eliminating some and, he believes, plowing the ground for faster and better work later on. Now, when the time and money arrive to do some work, a new administrator, Nathan Straus of New York, is appointed to direct a separate administration to which will be transferred all the experienced personnel of the Ickes organization.

A Bit of History
 In 1933, NRA was set up, calling for public works and slum clearing, among many other things. (Ickes might be reminded, now he is losing the housing job, that in 1933 he adroitly snatched PWA, including housing, from General Hugh Johnson, who wanted to handle it along with NRA.)

Housing efforts under PWA fall roughly into four campaigns. Ickes first tried to get communities to accept loans and grants for low-cost housing in the same manner as they accepted them for sewers and schools. But real estate boards kicked. Besides, the cities lacked legal authority for such operations. Months of delay ensued.

The administration next tried to get private operators to take over the work by forming "limited dividend" corporations to borrow the necessary money from PWA. The response was overwhelming. Six hundred offers came in. Ickes suspected most were unsound, while others appeared to be bald attempts to unload real estate. Timid consuming investigation reduced the number to seven, including one in New York headed by Mr. Straus. Dividends were limited to 6 per cent, rent to $12 a room. This was not a broad scale success.

Try, Try Again
 Then, after two false starts, Ickes directed the housing administration itself to build and operate projects. Thus 52 projects in 35 cities were undertaken. Altogether, 24,000 dwellings were started. Ickes proudly reports that a survey of the projects in several cities disclosed an average cost of $3,344 per 34-room dwelling. By way of comparison, might be mentioned that a Greenbelt, near Washington, the resettlement administration computes the average cost per dwelling at $5,423, and that is after approximately half of the cost has been charged off to relief and other items.

Fourth, still insisting that the job should be done by local communities, Ickes set out to get state and federal legislation to permit it. His next model bills to 48 state legislatures to legalize local "authorities" which could build and operate housing projects. Thirty states have enacted legislation he terms acceptable.

Then last session, congress enacted the Wagner bill, providing for grants and loans to local housing authorities. The housing authority was authorized to put $250,000,000 into the job. Ickes, to date, had spent only $145,000,000 in four years. And with the way apparently now open for high-speed sailing Ickes is not on the boat.

Select New Date for Flood Control Hearing

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
 Washington—At the request of Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, Wis., the Department has extended to Jan. 15 the date for a review hearing on an adverse report on a Fox River flood control project.

War department officials said the extension in time was requested in order to permit valley authorities to collect more data.

The review hearing was requested after army engineers filed an adverse report on a survey of the proposed project. If the board of army engineers should report favorably after the review hearing, they will order a complete survey. The proposed project calls for widening and straightening the lower end of the Fox river from its mouth to its confluence with the East river.

MAKE OWN AMMUNITION

Grand Rapids, Mich.—(7)—The pioneers who made their own bullets and measured out their own powder haven't a thing on the Grand Rapids police department.

Confronted with barred limitations which hindered pistol practice for the department, Superintendent Frank J. O'Malley ordered Patrolman Walter F. Weber to see what could be done about it. Weber recently reported that more than 39,000 cartridges had been made from reclaimed cases, lead and tin since August 1, 1936, at a cost of $100 as compared with the $800 the ammunition would have cost new.

France, with 76, leads the great naval powers of the world in modern submarines. Italy has 61; Japan, 44; Great Britain, 33; Germany, 36 and the United States, 24.

I've also seen the king of Spain's son.

Q—Have you had any luck today?

A—You mean, have I seen any celebrities?

Q—No, I mean about the tips—have you had a good take so far?

A—I'm a little shy my goal—I wanted to make five dollars, but I'm 50 cents short. Don't guess I'll make it either. It's time for me to go off. I don't have much left. I haven't stopped to answer so many questions for people, but then it's all in the days . . . Oh, Mister, thanks . . . Hot dicky, now I can go home without no deficit at all. . . If you ever come through here with a bag I hope you call on old 23 . . . I'd sure be proud to tote it . . .

Legion Appoints Committee to Buy Church Property

Oney Johnston Post May Use Buildings as Clubhouse

The purchase of a church building and parsonage at the corner of Superior and Hancock streets to be used by the Oney Johnston Post of the American Legion as a clubhouse was left up to a committee of five men at a meeting of the post last night in Elks hall.

The Legion has an option on the property, owned by the First Reformed church, and the committee was given power to act. Members of the committee are Raymond G. Kleist, commander, Earl Engel, George Peotter, Helm Husner, and Arthur Bunks.

A resolution was passed at last night's meeting in which the Legion expressed approval of a proposal for construction of a swimming pool at Lutz park. The resolution which will be presented to the city council was adopted after the members heard E. B. Rachow, chairman of the park board, and Alderman Gustave Keller talk on the matter.

Past commanders were honored, each man presiding for a time during the meeting. Those attending were C. O. Baetz, B. C. Shimek, Harvey Priebe, J. N. Fisher, H. W. Miller, A. A. Schuerle, Arthur Bunks, Fred Heinritz, and Les Smith. A past commander's ring was presented to Shimek.

Paul Wilke, chairman of the membership drive, reported that 300 men have signed their 1938 membership cards and that the drive is ahead of last year's. It is expected to have a full membership by Nov. 11.

Boy Scouts of Troop 4 held a court of honor at the meeting. Ray Renier, scoutmaster, and Theodore Frank, chairman of the troop committee, talked on troop activities. Merit badges for wood and metal work went to Ellsworth Potter, Alvin Potter, and Eugene Brach. Second class rank to Eugene Brach, and tenderfoot rating to Charles Buston and Fred Acheson.

2 Marx Brothers Deny Violation Of Copyright Law

Los Angeles—The Marx brothers, Groucho and Chico, pleaded today for public belief in their innocence while they appeal to a higher court their fine of $1,000 each for copyright infringement.

"In 28 years in the business," Groucho said "we have brought to our public entertainment and happiness," only to be "faced with the indignity of having been convicted for a misdemeanor. It is very humiliating."

The screen comics, convicted Saturday, were fined $1,000 in federal court yesterday. They said their attorneys would appeal. They were charged with broadcasting a radio skit which Carroll and Garret Graham said they had tried to sell the Marxes a year before.

"It is a miscarriage of justice," Chico said after sentence was pronounced. "We never knowingly lifted any material from anybody."

Groucho commented: "Well, I was expecting the worst, so I'm well satisfied." Maximum penalty for the offense is a year in jail in addition to the fine.

YOUNGSTERS LEARN "BIG APPLE" IN GYM CLASSES

Tripping the light fantastic in the above picture are a few of the 250 Roosevelt Junior High school pupils who attended a matinee dance in the school gymnasium last Friday. The youngsters learned to dance in physical education classes and some of them are even adept at such intricate dances as the "Big Apple," a complicated business which originated in Harlem. Secrets of "Big Apple" No Mystery to Roosevelt Pupils

BY E. L. BISPLX

The Big Apple, the Suzy-Q, the Charleston, Truckin', all are familiar terms to pupils of Roosevelt Junior High school and what's more, the boys and girls at the school can put on dance exhibitions that would at least rate par in any section of the country including the Cotton Club in Harlem.

For social dancing is taught in physical education classes at Roosevelt by the instructors, W. C. Pickett and Miss Genevieve Kronschnabel. How to ask a girl for the next dance and how to accept, without the usual embarrassment shown by junior high school youngsters, is no longer a mystery to Roosevelt pupils.

The fall series of dance lessons was climaxed Friday with a Halloween party in the school gymnasium at which over 250 of the school's 500 population attended.

And wallflowers just don't exist at Roosevelt dances. All youngsters from the youngest to the oldest dance and enjoy it. They even admit it.

Says It's 'Swell'

A redheaded lad when asked what he thought about dancing retaliated with, "Gee, it's swell. Who'd ever think dancing would be fun?"

A tubby youngster attending the eighth grade said, "When my dad went to school, they never taught dancing. If they did, he would know how to dance now. This is almost as much fun as baseball."

The girls like it too and really go in for the more intricate forms of the dance. Many of them can do a very presentable "Big Apple" and are learning more about it every day.

The whole thing started several years ago when instructors thought it would be a good idea to give pupils a little social polish and began teaching dancing in the ninth grade. The next year eighth graders were included and this year, dancing is also a part of the seventh grade physical education course.

Beginners are taught how to waltz in single formation and then girls dance with girls and boys dance with boys in separated classes until a degree of efficiency is attained. Mixed dancing classes are held each Friday afternoon.

No pupil is forced to dance. The course is voluntary and only a part of each gym period is reserved for each class. However, instructors said that only about 20 pupils out of 500 refuse to take instruction.

Dim Lights for Safety

It Is Said--

The county jail has been put up on a hotel basis, more or less, by Sheriff John Lappen. On the door entrance a sign reads "Transients Must Register at Desk." With colder weather here knights of the road are seeking free lodging at the jail in increasing numbers and the register system is being used to keep a check on them.

That the fun a dozen Fourth ward youths had in removing a small house from a golf course and placing it in front of a residence disappeared from the Halloween prank when they were found out by police yesterday and ordered to return it. They found it harder to replace the small building and had to use an automobile and trailer.

Social Statutes Must Meet Need, Speaker Asserts

Legislation Must Be Based On Specific Need, Welfare Group Told

Milwaukee—Social legislation to be useful must meet a specific need, the welfare conference of the National Association of Junior Leagues was told today by Fred K. Hoehler, of Chicago, director of the American Public Welfare association.

The old "poor laws," Hoehler said, were written not to remedy conditions or remove causes, but to relieve, grudgingly, distress and suffering.

Much of the present social security act, Hoehler said, is sound and meets a real need. "Some of it was rushed through and bears earmarks of uninformed and hurried efforts to comply with the federal law so that states would get their share of funds to be distributed," he declared. "The soundness of the cause certainly was not sufficient justification for the speed and obvious political capital made of this legislation in some states."

Poverty Affects All

Hoehler advised the delegates to become well-informed on social problems and legislation to permit intelligent cooperation with welfare agencies. All classes, he said, are affected by poverty in one manner or another.

Community centers, the family court, hospitals and a puppet theater were on the visiting schedule of the delegates today.

Mrs. Harper Sibley, Rochester, N. Y., wife of the former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told delegates last night "we in America have been careless, even profligate, of our spiritual resources."

Defer Action on Bids For Heating Plants

Action on bids for heating plants for the county garages at Seymour and Hortonville was deferred by the county highway committee yesterday at the courthouse until after the fall session of the county board. Postponement was made so that the county board may provide funds.

The Deep Rock Oil corporation and Great Lakes company each was given a contract for furnishing the county with a carload of gasoline. The bid of the Deep Rock company was 12312 per gallon, and the bid of the Great Lakes company was 1225 cents per gallon.

The committee will meet Thursday to start work on the budget for next year.

Holiday, Special Events on City's November Slate

Appleton to Greet at Least Three Distinguished Visitors This Month

Month of Thanksgiving and Armistice day, the Red Cross roll call and the first good snowfall, November will mean all those traditional things and a great many more specific ones for Appleton residents this year.

For one thing, it will bring to the city at least three distinguished visitors, Dr. Victor Heiser, author of the best seller, "An American Doctor's Odyssey," who will speak Nov. 8 at Lawrence Memorial chapel under the auspices of the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women; James Melton, radio and screen tenor, who will open the Community Artists series Nov. 10 at Lawrence Memorial chapel; and Dr. Baruch Braunstein, director of the World Affairs Forum of the Air, who will speak Thursday night of this week at First Congregational church under the auspices of the Monday evening Forum.

Scheduled for this month are important meetings of the city council and the county board. The former will set the budget for 1938 at its second meeting of the month, and the county board, which will go in session next week, will also have as its biggest task next year's budget. Some county officials will also be named.

Resurfacing of College avenue will be completed some time during the month, and the county highway department will be getting ready for winter snow removal work with erection of snow fences in various sections of the country.

Scouters to Meet

On Wednesday of this week the executive board of the valley council of Boy Scouts will meet at the Conway hotel for dinner and a discussion, and later this month the scouts will have a bean feed.

From the merchants' point of view this month is important because Thursday, Nov. 4, is Appleton day, 60 stores cooperating, and the two days after Thanksgiving, Nov. 26 and 27, will mark the opening of Christmas season shopping in the city's stores. The auto show will take place at Army Gym Nov. 18, 20 and 21. Saturday of this week, the Veterans of Foreign Wars will sponsor a poppy sale.

That Nov. 7 to 13 is American Education week probably means a great deal less to the city's school children than the fact that they have three extra vacation days this month. The first two come this Thursday and Friday to allow teachers to attend the annual state convention at Milwaukee, and the other is Thanksgiving day. For the younger children Nov. 9 is circled in red, for that is the day the Clare Tree Major players will present "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at Lawrence Memorial chapel under the auspices of the Edison School Parent Teachers' association.

New Pastor at Church
Headlining Appleton church news this month is the arrival of a new pastor, Dr. Harry C. Culver, who is coming from Mitchell, S. D. to take over his duties at First Methodist Episcopal church. He succeeds Dr. Gilbert Cox, who is going to Fort Collins, Colo., and will appear for the first time in the Appleton pulpit Sunday, Nov. 7. Another event of interest to Methodists this month is the harvest festival Nov. 16. The Presbyterian Guild will sponsor a bazaar at Memorial Presbyterian church Nov. 10.

A Better Church Institute is being held at First Baptist church this week, having begun on Sunday. The Rev. Thomas Frizelle, pastor of First Baptist church at Racine, is speaking at the evening services each night.

St. Therese Catholic church will celebrate its tenth anniversary Nov. 7 with a parish festival in the form of a bazaar at the parish hall. Another church anniversary this month is that which St. Matthew Lutheran has planned for Nov. 14 in honor of the thirteenth anniversary of its dedication. There will be a festival service in the evening, with Sylvester Johnson, Menasha.

candidate for the ministry, preaching.

Young people of Sacred Heart church will give a 3-act comedy, "Grand Old Darling," by Nat Foster Holmes, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 7 and 8. A holiday dinner and sale sponsored by the Women's association of First Congregational church is scheduled for Nov. 30.

Three Home Games

Football is still in the spotlight in the sports world, with three home games scheduled for this month. On Nov. 5 Lawrence freshmen will meet Mission college here and on the following day the Lawrence Vikings will play Beloit. Kaukauna High school will play Appleton here on Armistice day, Nov. 23.

has been selected as the tentative date for the football banquet to be sponsored by the chamber of commerce and Lawrence Men's club for college and high school players. Football will give way to basketball at the end of the month as basketball practice gets under way. The American Red Cross roll call will open Nov. 15 and close Nov. 25. George Johnson is general chairman.

To make arrangements for the unemployment census which will be conducted here through the Post Office Nov. 15 to 20, the citizens census committee will meet tonight.

Socially the month will see two large benefit card parties. The auxiliary of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce has planned one for Nov. 15 at the Appleton Woman's club, and the Service circle of the King's Daughters will give one to benefit the orthopedic school. Major social events at Lawrence college are the sport dance to be given this Saturday by Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Alpha Theta sororities; the Ormsby hall formal Nov. 13; the November all-college dance the following Saturday; and the Russell Sage hall formal Nov. 27.

Direct Taxes on Income Soundest, Professor States

Towle Speaks at Junior Chamber of Commerce Banquet

A system in which taxation is based on income and taxpayers realize when and what they're paying is the soundest and most satisfying, Professor Lawrence W. Towle of Lawrence college told members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their "bosses banquet" last night in Hotel Appleton.

"People don't realize they are paying so many indirect taxes," the professor said. "The poor people pay many taxes and don't know they are doing it."

If a progressive system of taxation is to be adopted, one in which the rate increases with the base, direct levies should be substituted for indirect, he declared.

Retrospective taxes, as opposed to progressive, are those which strike the small earner more heavily than the man with the large income, the professor explained. And the indirect taxes are usually retrospective.

The professor used the following example in explaining retrospective taxation: Assuming that a 3 per cent sales tax was imposed, a man making $1,000 a year and spending all his income for family maintenance would pay out $30. A man making $10,000 yearly and spending $7,000 would pay out $210 which is only 2.1 per cent of his income. Thus in this case the tax is unjust to the small earner.

Property Tax Has Flaw

Property tax was fair in the days when land represented a man's wealth, the professor said, but now no longer can be regarded as without flaw. A man with a large income may not own any land but considerable intangible property. "If we are to have a tax of this kind, it should affect all property and not just real estate."

The benefit principle can be used to advantage in certain types of taxation but not be applied generally, the professor explained. For example, in the gasoline tax, it is fair. The man who uses the roads the most pays the greatest amount towards their upkeep. "In this case, the benefit principle works," Professor Towle said, "but who, for example, can measure the benefit a man derives from the fire or police department compared with his neighbor. Here the principle can't be applied."

Private and government finance differ, the professor pointed out. An individual measures his spending by his income whereas the government determines its income by its spending, first setting up a budget and then figuring out how to collect it.

There are four reasons, Professor Towle stated, why government spending and, consequently, taxation, have increased. He cited increased population, general price rise, widened government activities, and the cost of war as causes for the boost in annual government expenditure. In 1903 the United States' upkeep amounted to a half billion dollars. After the World War that had risen to four billion and in 1935 it reached seven and one-half billion.

The Jaces invited either their bosses or guests to last night's dinner and the men were introduced in round-table fashion.

OUR MODERN AGE

By LEO J. MURPHY, D. C.

HISTORY REPEATS

History does repeat itself. At this particular time, the native color of the actors may be different, the action may be separated by the width of the globe and the passing of a century, but the theme and substance remain the same. In the very spirit and for the same purpose that the defenders of the Alamo fought the Mexicans in 1836, so did the defenders of Shanghai fight the Japanese in 1937. Both the Texans and the Chinese were sacrificed on the altar of tyranny and oppression.

We sacrifice many of life's pleasures because sleepless nights leave you too tired and worn out to really enjoy yourself! There must be a reason for your inability to sleep and you owe it to yourself to find out what the reason is and then remedy it. The quickest and most effective way to do this is to seek the advice and aid of that competent chiropactor Leo J. Murphy, of 231 Insurance Bldg. His thorough understanding and use of safe, modern chiropactic methods will enable him to locate the exact cause of your condition and he can then remove the cause. See him today. Don't let sleeplessness ruin your health, disposition and chances in life.

Neenah Yearlings Defeat Menasha Frosh Gridders

Scoring Starts With 80-Yard Run by Bunker After Pass Interception

Menasha—Neenah high school freshmen gridders evened the score with Menasha high yearlings Monday afternoon at Butte des Morts field with a 13 to 6 victory. At Neenah the Menasha yearlings had won by a 6 to 0 score.

The Neenah frosh scored early in the game. In the first quarter Bunker intercepted a Menasha pass on the 50 yard line and went down the left sidelines 80 yards for a touchdown. He was surrounded only by his teammates during the last 20 yards of his jaunt. His dropkick attempt for the extra point was blocked.

A consistent drive down the field during the second quarter right through the Menasha line led to the second touchdown. Bunker going over and then scoring the extra point on a beautiful dropkick attempt.

Paintings by Vocational Director Are on Display at Neenah Library

Neenah—A picturesque and quaint Maine harbor along the rocky coast of the Atlantic ocean was reproduced in Neenah today by Carl Christensen, director of the Neenah Vocational school, when he displayed his oils and water color paintings of scenes in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, in the museum room of the Neenah public library.

Forty-eight paintings, seven of which are in oils and the others in water colors, are being exhibited, and are the results of Christensen's work last summer while attending art school in Boothbay Harbor.

Nearly all of the works of art are the artist's impressions of harbor scenes, the others being pastoral scenes of Maine and Wisconsin villages.

The most striking picture of the collection is a vibrantly colored scene of surf pounding against the rocky coast, the artist having used deep colors to give the impression of contrast between a turbulent ocean and the rock formations. The painting is done in oils.

The exhibit includes a portrait done in oils, lighthouses and cove landscapes, fishing boats, old wharves, fog banks and other shore scenes.

His oil paintings are entitled: "Portland Head Light," "Ocean Point," "Seiner," "Hendrick's Head Light," the portrait sketch, "Beam Trowlers," and "Lobster Smack," while the other paintings are of "Maine Surf," "Lobster Fisherman," "Fishing Fleet," "Seine Fisherman," "In for Bait," "Rocks and Surf," "Hillside Pasture," "Along the Shore," "Fish Dock," "Meadow," "Southport," "At the Dock," "Harbor Island," "Tide Mill," "Banks Fisherman," "Gloucester Fisherman," "Low Tide," "Harbor View," "Private Island," "Late Afternoon," "Foggy Fishing Boats," "Coast Fisherman," "Surf," "Foggy Weather," "In for Supplies," "Four Master at Rest," "Fish Shack," "West Harbor," "Early Evening," "Fishing Boats," "Belle Hill," "Harbor Cove," "East Point," "Sardine Factory," "Coast Scene" and "Fish Factories."

One of Christensen's points is a yacht, Mandalay, owned by Frank Vining Smith, famed marine painter, and the other of a boat used by Donald MacMillan, noted Arctic explorer.

Council Closes Oshkosh Bridge

Bicycles and Pedestrians Permitted to Use Wisconsin Avenue Span

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—London (England) might have a bridge that is falling down, but Oshkosh will not endure a similar situation much longer, the council decided here Monday night. So, a report of the bridge committee warning of the danger of permitting Wisconsin avenue bridge over the Fox River to remain open was heeded and the bridge was closed to all traffic except bicycle and pedestrians.

A new span will cost between $275,000 and $350,000, Mayor C. A. Wiechering told the council. Plans are half completed by F. H. Parsons, Watertown engineer, to build the bridge if PWA grants came through.

However, in view of the dangerous condition of the old span, Oshkosh will build the bridge out of its own coffers. "In the end, we may save considerable by eliminating government red tape," commented Mayor Wiechering. He also pointed out that about $50,000 could be "ear-marked" for relief labor on the bridge, to take up the employment slack this winter.

Requests of several south side aldermen that the bridge be left open to traffic until a new one is built, were met with refusals by City Engineer Fred Wolverton and the bridge committee.

"It is in too dangerous condition. We would be both personally and morally liable if a catastrophe took place, and lives were lost."

A stag party at the lodge hall is planned tonight following bowling in the Germania league at the Hendy alleys. Luncheon will be served and cards played. Plans for a bowlers' dance will also be discussed.

Pupils in Grade Schools Will be Given Schick Test

Project Will Reveal Whether Immunization 'Shots' Are Still Effective

Neenah—Neenah grade school children will be given the Schick test beginning next week to determine whether they are protected from diphtheria, according to Miss Evelyn Scholl, school and city nurse.

The clinic which will be sponsored by the Neenah health council will be held in Neenah grade schools. The purpose of the tests are to check on whether shots taken for diphtheria are still effective and whether there is a need for any more shots, Miss Scholl said.

She added that in the past it has been found that 75 per cent of the children who were treated for diphtheria for the first time were protected, but that the other 25 per cent were not protected, and the tests prove which class the child is in.

Reading in 3 Days

The nurse explained that the tests will not be any good unless the children return for a reading three days after the tests, and if the child does not have the reading of the results another Schick test is necessary. Each test costs 15 cents and children are requested to have the correct change with them.

All children who have had shots for diphtheria are urged to take the test provided they have not had a negative Schick test before, Miss Scholl said.

The first test will be given for Washington and Trinity Lutheran school children at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Nov. 8, at Washington school. The second test will be held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at Roosevelt school for Roosevelt school children, and at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at Lincoln school for Lincoln school and McKinley school children.

Test Monday Morning
 The next test will be at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Nov. 15, at Kimberly school for Kimberly school children and at 1 o'clock at St. Patrick's school for St. Patrick's school children.

The readings for Washington and Trinity Lutheran school children will take place at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, Nov. 11, at Washington school and the readings for Roosevelt school children will be at 9 o'clock Friday morning, Nov. 12, at Roosevelt school, and readings for the Lincoln and McKinley school children will be at 1 o'clock Friday at Lincoln school.

Readings for Kimberly school children will take place at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, Nov. 18, at Kimberly school, and 1 o'clock at St. Patrick's school children at St. Patrick's school.

Board of Education Studies 1938 Budget

Menasha—The 1938 school budget was studied by the board of education at its meeting last night. Arrangements also were made by the board to have the court between the academic and vocational sections of the new high school building filled with gravel instead of clay. Entrances to the coal bin, freight door and automechanics department are there and as there will be considerable traffic there, it was thought better to have a gravel fill.

Pegler's 'Mr. Spelvin' Is Noted Character of Stage

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
 New York—From time to time these living, human documents have tried to record the mixed ruminations, the prejudices and the bafflement of the average American, using for his name George Spelvin. Several correspondents, including a drama critic who was covering one of the haymow theaters of the summer circuits in New Hampshire, have been good enough to report that they have discovered Mr. Spelvin himself at work in the drama in various places and to suggest that perhaps it was unwise to attribute such thoughts to an actual person who might hold decided views to the contrary.

This leads me to think that the story of Mr. Spelvin is of general interest, for he is a noted character in the professional circle of the theater but dying fast and has received too little recognition in his 30 years or so on the stage.

Mr. Spelvin has played more roles than any other actor that ever lived, and though he has usually performed acceptably and sometimes with distinction he is the only ham of his grade and ability who has never been invited to fall in with the rest of the cast and take his bends at the fall of the curtain. His passing soon to occur, will be unnoticed even by his colleagues and he will realize that he has gone until, perhaps years later, someone remarks, "I wonder whatever became of George Spelvin." Sentimentalists though they are, the men and women who paint their faces, dress up in fancy clothes and give recitations and sing and dance will send not so much as a card to his kin or a sprig to his bier.

George Spelvin made his debut in a minor part in "Brewster's Millions," and there once was a time when he was appearing in five Broadway productions at once.

Imaginary Character Blamed for Everything
 John Golden, the producer of many plays and currently of "Susan and God," with Gertrude Lawrence, which, in return for his assistance, I dare hope is a smash hit, goes back to the beginning on George.

It was Eddie Abels who invented Mr. Spelvin, Mr. Golden informs me out of a memory of the theater as long as an Englishman's shirt and as cluttered as a rat's nest with odd bits of reminiscent information. Spelvin, says Mr. Golden, was an imaginary character, to whom Eddie Abels attributed all blame for everything that went wrong and all gossip and rumor. He was Mr. Abels' personal John Doe, and scorning the popularly accepted form of "I hear" or "they tell me," Mr. Abels would attribute the most scurrilous hearsay to George Spelvin. There were times when half a dozen actors were looking for Spelvin on murder reports bearing on their private and domestic life.

In "Brewster's Millions" there was an actor cast for two parts who naturally wanted to use his own name for the better one, and it was Abels, the star, who, when they came to make up the program, proposed the name of his confidential wait for the minor role. Mr. Golden doesn't recall the name of the mimic who first used this hardy alias, but he does recall that Jack Devereaux, the juvenile after 10 weeks of rehearsal, returned an answer to Fred Thompson, the producer, which was of some weight when, years afterward, the actors' equity placed a limitation on the period of rehearsal without pay.

Used Spelvin's Name On All His Programs
 "You read that part like an old man," said Thompson. "I thought you were a juvenile," to which Devereaux replied, "I was when we started rehearsal."

In later years, Mr. Golden, out of slightly superstitious respect for the success of "Brewster's Millions," made a point of using George Spelvin's name on the programs of "Six 6," "Washington Square," "Turn to the Right," "Lightnin'," "Three Wise Fools," "Seventh Heaven" and "The First Year" for the secondary role of the actor who doubled. And it is his belief that if any artist has a special claim to the name it would be Mr. Jimmy Lane, who also was George Spelvin in a succession of other plays over several years. Other producers adopted Spelvin, however, and he often appeared simultaneously not only in several Broadway houses but in theaters on the road, hundreds of miles apart.

But for all his experience and occasional flashes of genius, Spelvin never progressed or even took a bow because the men who used his name always reverted to their lofter roles at the end of the show.

Now, undone by his own versatility and accumulating fame, the customers are getting onto him and, of all things, resent him as a deceiver in a world of make-believe.

POPULAR TENOR WILL SING HERE

Not only his voice but his engaging manner has helped James Melton rise to stage, radio and screen fame as a tenor. The young star, a native of Georgia, will open the Community Artists Series at the Memorial chapel on Wednesday night, Nov. 10.

Melton Has Personality Plus Voice

A SERENE, buoyant personality, an amazing capacity for hard work, and a voice of unique quality account for the rapid and remarkable success of James Melton, noted radio tenor, who will sing at Lawrence chapel Nov. 10. Born in 1904 at Moultrie, Georgia, Melton spent his youth in Citra, Florida, where he made his first public appearance as a soloist behind the altar in a church.

At the University of Florida he was advised to make a serious study of music. From Florida, Melton worked his way north by easy stages, matriculating next at the University of Georgia, and later at Vanderbilt university in Nashville.

While studying for opera, he worked in a college band, playing a saxophone and singing vocal choruses for dance numbers. He got his first chance over the air as a member of Rex's famous quartet and later joined the Revelers quartet as top tenor.

Although Melton is appearing at the first number of the Community Artist Series, single admissions for the concert are available at Bellington's Drug Store after Wednesday.

'Norwegian Supper' to be Served at Scandinavia
Waupaca—The annual "Norwegian supper" is scheduled for Friday in the basement of the Lutheran church at Scandinavia. Lutfisk, national dish of the Scandinavians, will be the principal item on the menu. For more than fifteen years this community has been serving lutfisk suppers, with an attendance ranging from 500 to 1,000 persons.

In addition to the lutfisk will be meat balls, Norwegian pastries rich with butter, leftse, made with potatoes, flour and rice, rolled thin and baked on top of a wood range, and for those who may not care for these delicacies there will be plenty of regular American food.

Lutfisk, similar to codfish, is dried, cured in lye and freshened before using. It is served especially during the holidays among the Scandinavians. For this particular occasion about 500 pounds will be used.

Harvest Festival Nets Lions $237

Proceeds to be Used for Eye-Testing Program Extension Course

Waupaca — Ralph Hoffmann, chairman of the Lions Harvest Festival committee reported Monday at the luncheon of the club that $237 had been cleared by the festival and would be applied on the eye-testing program and the University of Wisconsin Extension course.

The forum lectures under direction of Dr. Howard J. McMurray of the University of Wisconsin's Department of Political Science is drawing a much larger attendance than was anticipated when the course was planned by the Lions club. Wednesday night Dr. McMurray will discuss the CIO and the A. F. of L. and next week, "The Isms."

The committee headed by Judge A. M. Scheller, to prepare for the homecoming and pageant in connection with the 150th celebration of the establishment of the Northwest Territory, is in doubt as to whether the Lions will sponsor the project.

Don Farmer and Attorney Kyle Anderson were admitted as members of the club at the meeting Monday.

Directors of the club nominated Roy D. Luther to succeed R. C. Kirby who resigned as tail-twister.

On Nov. 23 the entire district of 27B will meet at the Rainbow Gardens, Appleton, to honor Frank V. Birch, Lions International president. Judge A. M. Scheller will preside as toastmaster at the banquet. A floor show and dance will follow the dinner. Fully 600 Lions and Lionesses are expected to be present.

Geenen's and the General Office Supply store, Mrs. F. W. Schneider is in charge of the sale. Mrs. George Catlin, general chairman of the bazaar, will announce her committees at the Guild meeting at 7:30 Wednesday night at the church.

Montefiore Ladies' Aid society will meet at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the social center. This will be a business meeting.

For Double-Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Better Than Ready-Made Medicines. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it's still the best thing ever known for coughs that start from colds. Try it once, and you'll swear by it. It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it. Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective. Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, finds his beloved Janet, a gun and Prescott Fanning's freshly shot body locked in a cabin on Fanning's yacht at Absalom's Harbor. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins Mark Berninger, local investigator. When Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swindler, he suspects queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning. Also on hand are Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer, and Ira Buckless, a tough who trails Neill. While Berninger leads a search of the dark ships, Neill breaks away, gets Janet and they dodge the searchers. Neill rejoins Berninger.

Chapter 31
Trouble on the Yacht
THE search of the four ships was completed about midnight, and Berninger grimly conceded defeat. That he was not satisfied became clear when he left six deputies behind him to cooperate with Bickel's men in watching the decks until morning. The rest of the party started for the skiffs.

Kettering as usual was at hand to put in his oar. "There's always some darn fool who raises an alarm," he said. "That guy was seeing things at night!"

Berninger disregarded this. So Janet was saved. But for how long? Neill couldn't afford to relax at all. He suddenly realized he was pretty nearly dead beat.

There was a moment when he and Kettering stood together on the platform at the foot of the ladder waiting to get in a skiff. Kettering said softly:

"Congratulations, Wheatley! I don't know just how you worked it, but it was neat!"

Neill said: "You're talking in riddles tonight, Mr. Kettering."

"Don't be afraid," he laughed. "I'm not going to give you away. They got in the skiff."

Back in the village, Berninger asked Neill into his room to have a drink before turning in.

Berninger had one of the bedrooms on the second floor of hotel. He threw off his coat vest and went to the window—a "woof" of satisfaction. Bigger's stern air. Neill had learned was only to warn off fools bores. When you were alone with him, if he liked you, he could come very human.

"Grand air down on this point," he said. "Grand for sleeping."

"You don't let anything get under your skin," said Neill enviously. "Life is too short for that."

Berninger. "I was drafted for work. I'm doing my best with a poor wits the Lord gave me, when I meet with a trifling back I'm not going to let it cast down. This case is a fascinating problem. I have all the lines in my hand. I shan't fail to land fish."

The Beer Isn't Drunk
"Do you still think there is somebody on the ships?" asked Neill handily.

"If there is, it's a good place to be," said Berninger with a dry smile. "I can put my hands there easily."

"This had the effect of a challenge to Neill. Oh, I don't know! thought. He said nothing."

Berninger looked at him. "You seem pretty well tucked out," he said. "You shouldn't tuck all this so hard."

Neill wished that he would sound the friendly note. He was getting to like the man too much. "Oh, it's the case," he said lightly. "That's a welcome distraction. I've got private trouble."

"Woman trouble, I reckon," Berninger said at your age."

"Well . . . yes," said Neill with a wry smile.

"Lord! I have known what it was in my time," said Berninger smiling. "I'm thankful it's over. Really a man gets the best out of women after he has passed 45. May not be flattering, but it has confidence in you then; it opens their dear little hearts to you. I have three nieces up the creek."

Each Partner Should 'Show His Groceries'

Mr. Culbertson is conducting through this column, a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Yesterday's Question
Question 29: Neither side vulnerable. You are South, the dealer, and hold:

♠ A 5 3 ♥ K 10 7 5 3 ♦ 5 4 ♣ J 7

The bidding proceeds:

South West North East
Pass Pass 4 diamonds Pass

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should pass. Your partner's bid was purely preemptive (shutout) and undoubtedly based on a long diamond suit and little or nothing else. Hence, there is little chance that you could make four hearts, and the same holds true for five diamonds. (One point demerit for any call other than a pass.)

Today's Question
Question 30: Both sides vulnerable. You are South, North deals and bids one spade. Next hand (East) doubles. Your holding is:

♠ Q 10 8 7 5 ♥ 4 ♦ K J 6 3 2 ♣ A 2

What call do you make?

Question 31: Both sides vulnerable. You are South. North deals and bids one spade. Next hand (East) doubles. Your holding is:

♠ S ♥ A J 9 4 ♦ K J 8 3 ♣ K 10 7 6

TODAY'S HAND
Match point duplicate.
North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A J 8
♥ A Q 9

♣ Q 9 8 6 4 2

EAST
♠ K 10 5 3 2
♥ 10 7 3

WEST
♠ 10 8 7 5 4
♥ A Q 7
♦ K 8 6 3
♣ J 10 3

SOUTH
♠ Q 9 7
♥ K 8 6
♦ A Q 5 4
♣ J 10 3

The bidding:

North East South West
1 club Pass 2 no trump Pass
2 diamonds Pass 3 diamonds Pass
3 no trump Pass 4 no trump Pass

Usually it is a prerequisite of good bidding for each partner to "show his groceries" to the other but this does not apply to the type of bidding of which South was guilty in the above hand. I refer specifically to the three diamond bid. South had preferred a jump no trump takeout to an initial response of one diamond, feeling that his distribution and scattered honor strength indicated no trump. I say, and that the hand would play better with the lead coming up to him. I have no fault to find with this reasoning. When North, however, merely rebid his clubs over two no trump, what possible purpose could a three diamond bid serve? Did South hope that North would respond with three of a major suit? The chances were strongly against it. North already had had opportunity over two no trump to bid a major and had failed to do so. But I will waive that point. Suppose North actually bid three spades or three hearts over three diamonds? What then? Would South prefer a major suit game contract with only seven trumps in the combined hands? There is no conclusion but that the three diamond bid was just one of those meaningless bids that usually, and deservedly, are boomerangs to the bidder.

In this case it warned West away from his natural diamond opening. As between a spade and a heart

Men Quick to Notice Signs Of Work, Age

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Occasionally there's a letter that sobs out its heart. Such letters must remain anonymous, of course. Very often these letters accuse men of being cruel and ugly in their criticism and expectations. The very men that were all tender and appreciation, the men who heaped compliments do an about face and become critical of their brides of a year of two or ten—it doesn't matter what the anniversary. Surely men weren't so critical when Mother was a girl?

Men can be cruel task masters. Perhaps they are becoming critical. Perhaps the fault lies partly in the high standards they set by other women. Perhaps all this emphasis on Beauty is fanning the fire of their criticism.

Men are quick to draw comparisons. If they weren't so quick to notice red, rough hands when Mother was a girl, wasn't it because all too many women had rough, red hands. Housework, her own washing and cooking and mending were excuse enough then. But today housework need not wreck the hands of the bride of a year or two or ten. True, it takes home-work to counteract the effects of the housework. But the wise bride uses a hand lotion every time she has her hands in strong suds, in soap and water or cleaning fluid of any kind. At night she uses a rich nourishing cream and she wears gloves, she manicures her nails or has them manicured once a week and between manicures pushes back the cuticle after washing the hands, gradually training it to a smooth, even rim.

Other Age Signs

Women generally regard graying hair and sagging muscles or wrinkles as signs of age. But to men there are other signs of slipping—flaws in personal daintiness or personal grooming, skin coarsening, hollows or lines or dark circles under the eyes are subject to criticism. Broadening at hips is ageing. Men like to point to the svelty, slim, girlish figures of their wives. The longer they can go on boasting "can hardly tell which is Mother and which Daughter" the better they like it; it flatters their own ego and men love that.

Men don't like the exotic in their own wives, or the extreme; but they do like to see their wives keep up instead of letting down in their fashion and figure. They are no longer content to have a quiet, drab little woman by their side. It's partly our fault. We've shown them we can do so much and yet remain so young and lovely. That's why they seem more critical.

BY EMILY POST

IN THE WAKE OF SUMMER

Dear Mrs. Post: While I was away with the children this summer, some business associates of my husband asked him to dinner quite often. In fact, I have gathered that they made his summer in town quite bearable. As it happens I don't know any of these wives and have met very few of the men. I seem to be at a disadvantage in showing my appreciation for their many kindnesses. I will, however, feel a lot better if there is some way that you can suggest by which I could show them a little hospitality. We couldn't ask them to spend week-ends with us during the summer because we were too far away.

Answer: Invite them to whatever you can. If your budget happens to be unusually generous in its allowance for party-giving, then I would suggest that you ask four at a time (making six with yourselves) to dine and go to the theatre. This would be the nicest return you could make. Not only do people like this invitation almost more than any other, but it would give you the best chance of getting to know them. But if your income is not big enough for this, you could just as successfully invite all of them together to an informal buffet dinner—or on Sunday night supper.

Dear Mrs. Post: During a short vacation this summer I stayed at the house of a friend. While there she was invited out to luncheon and to play bridge at the house of some one I did not know. Without any explanation or apology, she accepted and left me at home to amuse myself with only the dog for company. She of course saw to it that the dogbox was filled with plenty to eat. At the time I tried not to feel hurt and must admit that I had a lovely day resting and reading and enjoying the garden. But since I have often wondered whether this is the accepted present-day attitude of hostess toward guest, and if it is, why isn't more said about the guest's attitude? The puzzling thing of it all is that she prides herself on reading everything you write and following your advice to the letter.

Answer: I am sorry to have to accuse myself as much as her, because since you tell me she follows my book to the letter, I have an unhappy feeling that she may have taken a description I gave of a casual hostess as a pattern! There are dozens upon dozens of pages in my book describing the virtues and talents expected of perfect hostesses and only part of one page about a hostess whose description was certainly not intended to be followed unless by an exceptional some one who likes to run her house like a hotel, and invites those only who prefer hotels to the homes of friends. Such houses were of course enormous ones and as completely staffed as a hotel. As a matter of fact, very few houses of this type ever existed, and their number has become almost extinct. In any case, the manners of a hostess whose house is as impersonally run as a club has nothing to do with giving a visitor no choice but to set her own lunch and sit alone with the dog!

Age of Indiscretion Only Passing Madness

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Why are people around the ages of 45 and 50 wilder than even the younger people? I am a young married woman, brought up by a mother who was so strict she watched my every move and never allowed me to drink or smoke. I think she would have had a spasm if I had taken a cocktail or lit a cigarette. So she has always been my ideal of what was proper to do. Now, all of a sudden after having been a pattern of correctness all of her life, she has gone wild. She drinks and smokes, and the other day when I happened to break in on her in the midst of a party she talked smoking and drinking and going-on made me sick. What am I to do? I love my mother as much as any daughter could and I feel I can't stand for her to act this way. It is silly and disgusting. It seems to me that when a woman is a grandmother it is time for her to quiet down instead of stepping on the gas.

BEWILDERED DAUGHTER.

Answer: There is nothing the matter with your mother except that she is forty-five. She has reached the age of indiscretion when she needs a chaperone far more than she did when she was 16 but, unfortunately, there is no body who can keep an eye on her and make her behave.

Lots of women lose their heads as your mother has done when they get to be about that old. They have gone along as sober and steady as you please, being good wives and mothers, pillars of the church and blue-ribboners, and patronesses of all sorts of ethical and cultural movements. They have lot nature take its course and give 'em that middle-age spread and grizzled hair, and you would have sworn that they didn't have a single improper impulse in their whole system.

Then, suddenly, without warning or rhyme or reason, mother kicked up her heels and jumped the fence. She became the prop and stay of beauty shops and the answer to prayer of the people with reducing formulas. She dyed her honest gray hair; she had her eyebrows plucked; she painted her face up like a Jazazel; she bought clothes too young for her debutante daughter. She learned to smoke and to drink; sometimes she indulged in flirtations that got her into messes that her husband had to pay her out of. She began frequenting night clubs and cultivating the society of boys and girls who only endured her because she paid the checks.

You can see plenty of women like Mother wherever you go. Middle-aged women with lifted faces and strawberry-jam-colored hair; figures of fun in their silly young clothes, slipping up into the faces of slick-haired boys whose meal tickets they are; speaking of themselves as "we girls" and trying to ape the tricks and manners of flappers. Old sheep trying to pass for spring lambs.

Why they do it, heaven only knows. Perhaps it is because that when a woman suddenly realizes that her youth is almost gone she makes a desperate and frantic clutch at what is left of it.

Maybe it is because when she sees romance passing her by she feels she must have one last bite at it and grabs for it as a starving woman grabs at food. Maybe it is just the sudden realization that she is upon her and her girlhood gone that drives her temporarily insane and makes her do foolish things.

Nobody knows, but many women have this passing madness during which they commit follies of which they were incapable before and will be incapable of committing afterward. Of course, it is shocking to their children while it lasts, but there is nothing to worry over. Mother will get over her second adolescence and be herself again and, perhaps, even nicer than she was before, because she will be broader and more tolerant, as nothing makes us so kind to other peoples' follies as having been foolish ourselves.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am in love with a man of 42. He is clean, honorable, upright, with a heart untouched by the sordid things of life, but he has never been able to make much money. I am 23. Should I marry him or some man for whom I do not care, but who has more money?

R. J.

Answer: I am not strong for these men of 42 who have souls untouched by the sordid things of life. Their wives usually have to support them. But neither do I believe in marrying for money. A woman makes a poor bargain who sells herself, no matter how much she gets.

Uncle Ray's Corner

In Shakespeare's Town

II—A COTTAGE AND A STILE

About half a mile from the edge of Stratford-on-Avon is a house known as Anne Hathaway's cottage. It dates back to the time of Shakespeare, and in it once lived a young woman named Anne Hathaway. Sometimes young Shakespeare paid visits to the cottage, and he came to know Anne very well. By and by, they were married.

One of my English friends took me motoring through the countryside. When we came to a certain place, he stopped the car and pointed out what looked like a wide gate.

"That is the tumble-down stile," he said. "It is said that Shakespeare was caught there after he had shot a deer in Sir Thomas Lucy's forest."

Going to the tumble-down stile. I found the reason for its name. The long wooden bars are movable. When they are pressed at one end, they sink toward the ground, and a person is able to step over them easily enough.

The legend goes on to say that Shakespeare ran away from Stratford-on-Avon before he could be put in prison for having "poached" in Lucy's forest.

That may be just a story made up to explain why Shakespeare left his native town, and went to London.

Whatever is the true reason he went away, we know he did go to London in his young manhood. There he started on the career which brought him great fame.

Discretion Is Virtue In Mistakes of Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

Discretion can rise to the heights of virtue when it is put to the service of children. No child ever grew up without making a mistake that frightened his parents and teachers. The more active the child the more certain he is to come to grief. The adolescent child whose growth makes him an easy victim to social proprieties is certain to need the sympathy and understanding of the fathers and mothers and teachers of the community. It is in this relation that discretion becomes the highest expression of intelligence.

When a child makes a mistake keep it to yourself. Say as little as possible to those who are concerned about it and nothing at all to those who are not concerned. There is no reason why Aunt Millie should be called up to listen to the latest offense son or daughter has committed. No reason at all why the family friend should be told of the difficulty. There is every reason why they should not be told.

Most people abide by the social code and the Ten Commandments, in healthy dread of public opinion. Their group respects the code and the Commandments, and they fear the loss of the group's respect and admiration far more than they fear the official law of the land. Men live on the respect and regard their fellows have for them. They will suffer hardship, make great sacrifices, to hold that admiration and regard. It is their rock and their fortress. Children have an acute sense of this public regard. It is tragic to feel any loss of it. They are utterly helpless without it.

Knowing this, the last thing one should do is to tell. Keep the wrong-doing secret if possible. Never make a public exposure of a child or youth. Once he feels he has lost the respect of his community he has no incentive, no hope, to build on or to go forward on. Hold fast for him, lend him the solace of silence in his hour of sorrow. You don't want to wreck him. You want to save him. Go about it discreetly.

I am not saying that children are not to bear the weight of their mistakes. They will in any case. I would have them face the mistake, confess it to themselves, if not to us, and set about making better use of their powers. I am pleading for the silence that shields tender young things from the blight of harsh publicity. It does no good, and it works measureless harm.

Newspapers are usually discreet about withholding the names of children who have gotten into trouble. It is no longer thought good school practice to call out offenders before the assembly and disgrace them publicly. It remains for the family, relatives and friends to use the same discretion about childish errors.

The records of school children are a professional secret. No teacher passes them along as interesting gossip.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Vikes, Highs, Frosh Prep for Final Tilts

Lawrence Meets Beloit College Here Saturday
H. S. PLAYS NOV. 11

Freshmen to Clash With Mission College Friday

FOOTBALL practices for Lawrence college and Appleton High school teams were resumed this afternoon at the respective fields as both clubs prepared for their final games.

Lawrence will close the season against Beloit college here Saturday afternoon. The Vikes came through their grueling battle with Ripon Saturday with less in the way of serious hurts than any other game this year. Masteren suffered a cracked rib but it isn't bothering him much while Garvey, who left the game after a bump on the head, has recovered.

Highly enthusiastic over their showing against Ripon, the Vikings are getting primed to beat Beloit and close the season with a victory. Next to Ripon at homecoming time, Lawrence likes nothing better than defeating Beloit.

The Vikes aren't sure what to expect from the downstaters. A week ago the Gold humbled Knox in a free-scoring contest but last Saturday slipped in losing to Coe. However, the heat probably played havoc with the Beloit team. Most of its troubles came from intercepted passes.

Appleton high schoolers will practice this afternoon and tomorrow and then layoff the remainder of the week as the coaches go to Milwaukee for the state teachers convention. The Terrors won't be in action again until Nov. 11 when they meet Kaukauna at Whiting field in the annual Armistice day game. It will be a non-league game.

Lawrence college freshmen held a signal drill last night with a half dozen coaches watching over them. The yearlings will play their second and last game of the season here Friday afternoon against Mission House college which isn't expected to be as tough as St. Norbert.

In last evening's drill the reserves got a workout because many of the regular performers in the St. Norbert game were nursing bruises. Jack Sellers, Appleton youth on the yearling team, won't be able to play Friday because of a pulled ligament.

Viking Harriers 5th In Midwest Tourney

Lawrence college cross country team placed fifth in a field of five at the annual Midwest conference run last Saturday at Cedar Rapids, Ia. Cornell won the team honors held by Lawrence and Carleton the year previous. The Iowans finished first, second and fourth.

Frank Schubert, Lawrence runner and former individual cross country champion of the Midwest, collapsed three quarters of a mile from the finish. He succumbed to the 87 degree heat. The previous day the mercury had hit 91 degrees, the hottest Oct. 29 in 69 years of Iowa history. John Fulton finished sixth for the Vikes and Joe Knox was tenth.

Next Saturday the Vikings will run against Beloit here between halves of the Lawrence-Beloit football game. Four runners will represent each school.

Coaches' Dream Player Is Reality at Chicago

CHICAGO — (AP) — The dream player of every football coach is galloping the gridirons of Chicago.

He is "Wild Bill" De Correvont, a shy, 17-year-old youth, rated as the nation's most amazing prep star.

To date, in five games playing with Austin High school, De Correvont has scored 25 touchdowns, nine in one game, and six points after touchdowns, for a total of 156 points. This shatters the previous Chicago individual season scoring record of 109 points.

During his four years on Austin High school teams, he has set up an all-time scoring record that may never be equalled. He has scored one or more touchdowns in every league game he has played since his first game as a freshman. More than half the runs he has made have been for 50 yards or more.

Master of All Tricks

This slim blond youth, weighing 172 pounds and five feet eleven inches tall, has played under three coaches. Each declares without reserve that he is the greatest prep star they've ever seen.

He is complete master of all the tricks of a veteran ball carrier, is a past master in feinting and dodging, kicks remarkably and is a deadly and accurate passer. As good as he is, De Correvont is the first out for practice and the last to quit, always working for perfection.

De Correvont is not only a great football star, but a baseball "nugget" as well. He plays the outfield batting average of .300. He is a mere 380; his highest was 490. He has turned down an offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers, which is reported to have included a college education.

Sales "talks" from various colleges, by phone and the mails, are pouring into De Correvont's home. Many are accompanied by attractive offers of work and financial aid.

His grandfather was a member of the Cincinnati Reds years ago. His father, who died two years ago, was a football player and also good at baseball.

Chaff 'n Chatter

BY Gordon H. McIntyre

AND this week we welcome a woman into the realm of successful pickers in this football guessing contest. She's Mrs. Norbert Gossens, Kimberly, she selected two perfect scores and with William Marx, 940 E. North street, Appleton, she wins a ticket to the Lawrence-Beloit game here Saturday. The duets will be mailed in a day or two.

Mrs. Gossens said that Kaukauna would beat Neenah 7 to 0 and that the Green Bay Packers would eke out a 14 to 13 victory over the Detroit Lions. Incidentally her success enables her to laud it over her husband who hasn't been so good.

William Marx also selected Kaukauna to beat Neenah by a 7 to 0 score and named Purdue to beat Iowa by a 13 to 0 count.

Fifty-five persons got in on the guessing last week with the majority being from the towns and cities near Appleton. Fifteen persons had one score right, the week featuring several tie games that were never dreamed of, several defeats and victories that were hard to account for and several rather peculiar scores.

For instance, many persons picked Appleton to win but none figured the score would be 8 and 7. And then the games in which Big Ten teams figured were so close that there was no way of knowing the outcome.

It's too bad that Bill Lawson, 219 N. Park avenue, Neenah, can't be given a reward of some kind. He picked Lawrence and Ripon to play a 7-7 tie and that's really a feat.

Notre Dame's 7 to 6 win over Minnesota was called by three persons. They were Edgar Veit, 24 Sherman place, Lytle Vanden Velden, 1702 S. Oneida street, and Gordon McKeljohn, New London. The latter missed three other scores by a point in each instance.

That Nebraska and Indiana probably would play a close game was the opinion of many people but only three persons picked the 7-0 count. They were Norbert Lucasen, Little Chute; H. J. Weller, Appleton; Donald E. Rogers, 1114 W. Lawrence street, Appleton.

Michigan's 7 to 6 win over Illinois was another hard one to pick but Pete Van Scombeck, Kimberly; and Bob Murphy, Route 4, Appleton, called the game. Incidentally, four members of the Murphy family tried their luck last week.

Kaukauna's 7 to 0 victory over Neenah was called by Don Peeters, Little Chute, and this young Novakofski fellow over at Menasha. Purdue's 13 to 0 win over Iowa was called by Glen Bowers, Appleton, and Norbert Gossens, Kimberly. Jerry Lamers, Little Chute, picked the West Bays to tie Fond du Lac, 6 to 0, and Lloyd Bodoh, New London, picked the Packers to win 14 to 12.

And so below you'll find another list of games, the last of the season because there aren't any more football games to give tickets for. The winner or winners will be given a ticket to the Appleton-Kaukauna game in Appleton on Nov. 11. The rules require you get the guesses mailed so that the letters are postmarked by 6 o'clock Friday evening or are deposited at the Post-Crescent office before it closes at 7 o'clock.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BALANCE IMPORTANT IN SAND

One of the first requisites of a sand trap shot is to place the feet in a firm position before essaying the shot. This may require considerable foot twisting before one feels settled down correctly but this factor is important because in the shifting sands, a slight skid of the foot and the shot would be ruined. In such a position one is able to make a powerful swing and this is often necessary in exploding a well buried shot to the green.

For instance in the shot just completed by Ralph Guldaul above, he is standing right upright with his feet close together yet nevertheless well balanced. This has given him a wider arc in his stroke and thus greater descending momentum onto the ball.

In the first illustration Guldaul's right arm is still applying the pressure although the ball has risen from the sand and is "on" its way. His body position is still the same as it was during the stroke in its relation to the original position of the ball and he is just starting to let the stroke shift his head around to follow the ball's flight.

Any raising or lowering of the body while the stroke is being made is an endanger to accuracy of its execution. It is to swerve out of its accustomed groove. A point to remember is to keep on swinging through, postponing a look-see until you are well through with the stroke as in Guldaul's last position.

Alma Mater Gives All for Her Boys --When They Fall in Her Defense

By the AP Feature Service College Station, Texas — Nothing is too good for the modern college player out "doing and dying" for old Alma Mater. He gets the best hospital beds, the best leg splints, the best-looking nurses. At Texas A. and M., home of one of the southwest's strongest teams, the annual budget carries a $1,000 allotment for hospitalization and treatment of injured grid heroes—exclusive of the trainer's salary or expenses of the team physician. Also allotted is about $400 for training room items, chief of which is adhesive tape.

Last year Dick Todd, the Aggies' potential all-American halfback, received a whack on the head in the Southern Methodist game. He spent days in the hospital. The $250 bill was passed as a routine matter through athletic office records.

A knee operation, which may bob up every few years or so, may cost as much as $500. It is figured as an obligation of the college to the player.

It isn't the major injuries that plague a football team, however. The Aggies have had only one broken bone in three years. It's the injuries that keep a player out of a game or so and break up the team spirit that keep Trainer Lil Dimmitt and Dr. R. Henry Harrison, team physician, constantly alert.

The Aggies left the field after their 1937 game with Mississippi State with a 14-0 victory and with nine first-stringers on the casualty list. All nine were ready for Texas Christian the following week-end. But it took daily trips to doctors, osteopaths and anyone else Trainer Dimmitt could find.

Knees and ankles are most frequently hurt, with many shoulder ailments, also. Colds, boils, bruised muscles, pinched nerves and cuts of all types stand high on the routine list. Athlete's foot is frequent and no misnomer in a grid camp.

Dimmitt's big job is not to treat injuries but to prevent them. Aggie football players weigh before and after every practice. The weight card is an excellent health barometer.

Aside from his regular playing equipment, which includes protective devices galore, each Aggie goes to his daily workout with his ankles securely wrapped either with cloth banding or adhesive tape. He usually wears about nine yards of 2-inch tape on his ankles on game day.

On the field Dimmitt keeps his "hit and run" bag ready for service. His kit and Dr. Harrison's black bag have just about everything needed for a major operation but an operating table. There is even a portable X-ray machine on the sidelines.

When a player doesn't get up—The trainer checks his eyes, pulse, and gives him a 5-minute examination for broken bones. Dilated eyes may mean a head injury. Weak pulse means a call for the doctor. Here Texas A. & M.'s Dick Todd is attended by Dr. R. Henry Harrison, Trainer Lil Dimmitt.

ONCE THE DOCTOR IS CALLED—You may scratch the name of the injured gridder off the program. The trainer handles minor injuries. Sometimes the player is wheeled around, it is no more than a minor leg injury.

IN THE TRAINING ROOM—Where Todd is getting a leg massage from Trainer Dimmitt are heat-ray machines and diathermy equipment, the latter to create heat within body tissues and relieve pressures. Here each athlete gets his ankles bound with tape before each game.

Appleton Reds, Flying Dutchmen To Clash for Valley Championship

THE Fox river valley semi-pro football championship will be at stake when the Flying Dutchmen of Little Chute and the Appleton Reds tangle at 7:45 Wednesday evening at the Kimberly athletic field. Both squads are studded with former college and high school football stars and have experienced comparatively successful seasons.

Handicapped by the lack of equipment, the Dutchmen started slowly but have shown improvement as the season advanced. A number of veterans of past seasons, B. Haupt, Egan, G. Hartjes, W. Van Handel, H. DeBruin, J. Van Duke and R. Coenen, will augment the flock of youngsters for the tilt Wednesday night.

Big Herb Eggert, who went wild against a powerful Fond du Lac team Sunday leads the Appleton eleven carrying such men as Casper, Popp, Block, Strutz, Catlin, Palmbeck, Bender, Marx, Braasch, Brandt and Clark.

Proceeds of the game will be split between the squads and used for purchase of new equipment. Tickets are being sold by team members at 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for high school students. Flying Dutchmen will don their grid suits at 7 o'clock in the St. John High school gymnasium.

California Bears Remain Choice of Nation's Writers

Hold First Place in the Associated Press Poll of Leading Teams

BY DREW MIDDLETON NEW YORK — (AP) — The mighty may fall but California stays on top.

Scoring inclusion in the bumper crop of upsets and form reversals that has sent such potent powers as Minnesota tumbling out of football's '400 the Golden Bears hold, for the third successive week, first place in the Associated Press national poll of newspaper experts.

As Minnesota faded after four glorious seasons as one of the gridiron greats, and four new contenders moved up in the charmed circle, the balloting swung heavily to the Golden Bears.

600 Points Out of 620

Of the 62 writers polled, 49 chose Stubby Allison's young men as the nation's No. 1 eleven and the Bears topped the list with 600 points out of a possible 620. Alabama, Baylor, Fordham and Nebraska all moved ahead as a result of the latest poll. The tabulation, scoring each team in a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis and with first place votes indicated in brackets:

First Ten

1. California	(49)	600
2. Alabama	(6)	503
3. Pittsburgh	(4)	482
4. Baylor	(2)	331
5. Fordham		281
6. Nebraska		191
7. Yale		181
8. Ohio State		178
9. Dartmouth		146
10. Santa Clara		113

(Note: One ballot bracketed California, Alabama and Pitt in triple tie for lead.)

Second team: 11. Duke, 107; 12. Notre Dame, 73; 13. Villanova, 62; 14. Minnesota, 55; 15. Tennessee, 24; 16. tie between Duquesne and Arkansas, 10 each; 18. Louisiana State 8; 19. tie between Tulane and Northwestern, 6, (also ran: Colorado 5, Southern California 5, Texas Christian 2, Holy Cross and Vanderbilt 1 each.)

Minnesota's departure from the first ten may not be permanent, but it breaks the Gophers down to conventional size after four years of happy hunting on the gridiron that produced half a dozen all-Americans and a legend of invulnerability.

Only twice has he fallen below the 300 mark since becoming a regular in 1926. He hit for 356 in 1934, 354 in 1936, and last season clouted at a merry 369 game, best in both major leagues. His lifetime average is 329 over his 14 seasons. He came to the Tigers, to stay, in 1925.

The first ten in the voting:

Charles Gehringer, Detroit	73
Joe DiMaggio, New York	74
Hank Greenberg, Detroit	46
Low Gehrig, New York	42
Luke Sewell, Chicago	22
Bill Dickey, New York	22
Joe Cronin, Boston	19

Goodman in Finals Of Mexico Tournament

Mexico City — (AP) — Omaha's Johnny Goodman, who hardly had a good afternoon's practice when he won the Mexican National amateur golf championship from Percy M. Clifford last year, tackles tougher opposition today when he defends the title against the "Flying Dutchman" from Dallas, young Don Schumacher.

After breezing through all opposition on the way to today's 3-hole final, these two appear all set for a real match. They both have been cracking a tough par at the Mexico City country club with considerable regularity.

Goodman disposed of Ed Appold of Mexico City, 9 and 8, in the semifinal yesterday, shooting the first 18 holes one over par to lead five up and topping off the match with a birdie four on the twenty-eighth. Schumacher played even more brilliantly to gain a 10 and 9 victory over Blain McNeill of El Paso, Tex., leading three up at the eighteenth, the 22-year-old Dallas won after three birdies and six pars at his rival to end the match halfway through the afternoon round.

Nye Has Played Last Game for Villanova

Philadelphia — (AP) — Franny Nye, of Harrisburg, Pa., quarterback for the undefeated Villanova college team, has played his last game of college football.

Coach Maurice "Clipper" Smith announced today Nye, a senior, twisted his knee during a workout at Detroit last Friday and would be unable to play in the remaining games against Marquette, Boston university, Temple and Loyola university of Los Angeles.

The injury has been diagnosed as a slipped cartilage, Smith said.

The Textbook Terrors

AT ATCHISON, KAS. St. Benedict's Marty Peters won the title of chief moaner among U. S. football coaches. His team then beat the Hastings (Nebr.) Teachers, 26-0. Peters moaned that pursuit of knowledge was tiring his men from the field, posed (left) with a griddle. No one took Peters seriously, until photos from all parts of the U. S. made fans wonder: Are football players really studying and slighting their practice periods?

AT NEW HAVEN, CONN. Bill Platt of the Yale eleven was caught with a textbook. Old Yalemen were cheered, however, when other pictures showed Yale gridders reading the comics, showed one athlete asleep over his schoolwork.

AT NOTRE DAME, IND. Len Skoglund, end, was seen studying. Skoglund, Johnny Murphy and Joe Kuharich of the Irish team are honor students. Troubled fans wondered how this had affected Notre Dame in the Carnegie Tech and Illinois games.

AT DURHAM, N. C. Co-Captain Andy Bershak, end, and all-America prospect of the North Carolina team, posed with a "textbook." Alarmed alumni calmed, however, when the volume, upon close examination, seemed to be an innocuous college yearbook.

Lighted Fields Increase Attendance at State High School Football Contests

Survey Shows Night Games Enable More People to Witness Encounters

BY RAY PEACOCK
MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Night football in Wisconsin high school circuits is returning substantial dividends on the investment, an Associated Press survey showed today. Nearly all the large cities of the state have lighted fields for the prep gridders, with typical reports indicating attendance at least doubled or tripled over former afternoon receipts.

Three factors were shown in the survey to have combined to bring about the sunless encounters: radio broadcasts of college games on Saturday afternoons, better roads and faster cars for trips to those games, and the fact that more persons are free to watch a game at night than in the afternoon.

The Wisconsin Valley conference may be considered typical of the change from day to night games. Seven of the eight schools have lights available. Rhinelander, far to the north, is the only exception and draws the smallest crowds for its Saturday afternoon games.

$2,200 Gate First Night

Stevens Point put in lights at a cost of $1,700 and had a $2,200 crowd out the first night. Previously, a $200 game was "good," said Francis R. Strand, of the Stevens Point Journal. The Pointers have played under lights for three years and continue to draw well.

Three years ago the school's athletic association was close to $3,500 in the red. Attendance at games seldom reached 1,000. One game this year drew 3,200 paid. The end of this season probably will see the school's books balanced in black ink, according to Dave Christensen, of the Wausau Record-Herald.

Other schools in this conference are Wisconsin Rapids, Nekeosa, Marshfield, Merrill and Antigo. At the homecoming game this year, Antigo turnstiles clicked 3,000 times.

Waupun, with night ball, has more than doubled its attendance. So have schools of Green Bay, La Crosse and Madison.

Manitowoc in Doldrums

Among exceptions in the state are Fond du Lac, Manitowoc and Two Rivers. At Fond du Lac, efforts to have lights installed have been stalemated. Manitowoc has been in the football doldrums for six years. But, says Harry Chandler of the Manitowoc Herald-Times, "when the teams have something to bring the fans out to see, the lighted field will follow as natural development."

P. F. Neverman, of Marinette, secretary of the Wisconsin Inter-scholastic Athletic association, recalled for the Associated Press that the first Wisconsin high school night game was played between Beaver Dam and Watertown at Beaver Dam early in the fall of 1930.

"An incomplete survey," Neverman said, "shows that about one hundred Wisconsin high school fields are equipped for night football. Night games attract a far larger attendance than do day games."

No Added Hazard

"An injury study shows no added hazard to the individual player, but frequent reports received indicate that night games, especially during the latter half of the season, are not as popular as they were several years ago, except when the weather is unusually favorable."

"Night football has produced sufficient additional revenue to enable many high schools to continue

Indiana Doesn't Know Meaning of The Word 'Quit'

Ohio State Buckeyes May Stumble Over Hoosier Hurdle

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CINCINNATI — (AP) — The "Hoosier hurdle" may trip Ohio State's dash toward the Big Ten title next Saturday.

On the won and lost performance sheet, the powerful Buckeyes figure to mow down Indiana for a fourth Western conference victory before moving against Illinois and Michigan. Ohio State has whipped Texas Christian, Purdue, Northwestern and Chicago while dropping a one-point decision to Southern California. Indiana defeated Centre, Illinois and Cincinnati, being downed by Minnesota and Nebraska.

But the scores back of those performances by Indiana indicate the Hoosiers would be no pushover for any eleven. Minnesota won 6 to 0, but Indiana gave the Gophers a jitters after a Nebraska win 7 to 0, scoring on the first scrimmage play and then was outplayed the remainder of the game by an eleven which doesn't know the word "quit."

'Shoot the Works'

Yesterday's drill by Ohio State indicates Coach Francis Schmidt of the Buckeyes is preparing to "shoot the works" against Coach Bo McMillin's team. Indiana came through the Nebraska game in good shape and yesterday worked on defense. Jim Sirkosky, veteran guard, and Don Heistand, halfback, who have been injured, probably will be ready for Saturday's test.

Purdue, the only Big Ten team leaving conference circles for action, worked on offense plans for Fordham, Northwestern, as usual showing marked improvement as the season advances. Will have quarterback Fred Vanzo back in the lineup for Illinois. The Wildcats took only a light drill on signals.

Bennett May Start

Illinois' second stringers went through a scrimmage which indicated Bob Zuppkie may start Ralph Bennett, a sophomore, at fullback Saturday against the Wildcats. Bennett was impressive against Michigan which entertains Chicago.

Minnesota, opening preparations for Iowa, showed the effect of its bruising one-point defeat by Notre Dame. Horace Bell, placekick artist, reported with a shoulder injury and Wilbur Moore and George Faust, backs, nursing bruises. Iowa went through a light drill. Captain Homer Harris, Erwin Prasse and Bob Lannon may be kept out of the Gopher game because of injuries.

Notre Dame, entertaining Pitts-burgh in the nation's standout clash. The Irish, who'll be bidding for recognition as one of the top-notch teams in the land, went through a long but light drill against Pitt formations.

Marquette May Lose Services of Center

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Marquette faced the prospect today of playing Villanova minus the services of Roy Schoemann, senior center, who suffered a twisted knee in the Santa Clara game.

Paddy Driscoll, Hilltop mentor, looked to Edward Niemi, 202-pound Ironwood, Mich., reserve to take the veteran lineman's place.

Driscoll told the squad yesterday, "Santa Clara should have won Saturday about 13 to 0. Lack of alertness on our part handed the Broncos four touchdowns."

Pass defense was given the major portion of attention at Monday's rain-swept practice session.

Find Increase In Number of Grid Injuries

Shorter Training Period Blamed by W. I. A. A. Officer

MARINETTE — (AP) — The Wisconsin Inter-scholastic Athletic association bulletin today placed direct responsibility for an increase this season in the number of injured Wisconsin high school football players to a short, "inadequate" training season.

The bulletin said that most schools opened Sept. 7, six days later than in 1936, and played first games Sept. 17. The association rule of no game before the third Friday in September kept the 1936 ratio for injuries to 36 per thousand, the bulletin said, but the shorter pre-game period this year increased it to about 40 per thousand at the present time.

"Up to and including Oct. 29 of 1935, 456 football injuries were reported," the bulletin said. "Up to and including the same date in 1936 (when the third Friday ruling went into effect), 381 were recorded. On Oct. 27 this year, 506 were reported."

"No school should permit scrimmage the first ten days of training," the bulletin declared.

While the first objective of the W. I. A. A. was to pay a benefit to the injured high school gridders, assisting him in meeting medical expenses, the second objective of preventing accidents is the more important, the bulletin said. On Oct. 27 this year, 15,548 boys were protected under the benefit plan, compared to 13,716 of last year.

The annual meeting of the W. I. A. A. will be held in the auditorium of the public service building in Milwaukee Thursday. Principals of member schools will be voting delegates, secretary P. F. Neverman of Marinette announced.

Home Decorating Topic at Meeting

Manitowoc Man Principal Speaker Before Chil- ton Woman's Club

CHILTON — The Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. William Aebischer Monday afternoon, the assisting hostess being Mrs. Edward Landgraf. After the business meeting a talk on interior decorating was given by Nelson Jung of Manitowoc. According to the speaker, the American people had no artistic independence until after the World war. Dyes were imported from Germany, wall papers from France and England, linens from Ireland, and so on. But after the World war, Americans began to develop national art, until today we have the world, our eyes are now superior to those imported, he said.

Mr. Jung showed wall papers, or reprints of them, from very early times, showing a paper from the home of Paul Feyer, and another from the early childhood home of Abraham Lincoln. He stated that the earliest wall paper of which there is any record was found in 1500. The first papers were made by the Dominican monks from wood blocks.

The speaker also showed a properly decorated boy's room, a nursery, a living and dining room in early American, and a living room in the Georgian period.

Margaret Jensen sang several selections, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Roland Tesch was in Appleton Tuesday to attend the birthday celebration of her father, Dr. A. E. Addis.

Mrs. Mary Olbrich and daughter Minnie have moved from the Hurley home on Washington street to the new home of Mrs. Mary Schenmer home on Baldwin street.

A bolt of lightning struck the chimney of the John Juckem home at about 7 o'clock Monday evening, doing considerable damage to the chimney and destroying plaster on the wall of the kitchen. No one of the family was in the house at the time, all having gone to church.

Dr. J. E. Reinbold, Otto Horst and C. M. Morrissey were at Green Bay Saturday evening to attend a meeting of the Triple Tau of Royal Arch Masons of this district. About 300 sat down to a banquet at 6:30, after which there was an exemplification of the most excellent master's degree by one of the Green Bay lodges. Masons were present from Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Plymouth, Two Rivers, Oconto, Waupaca, Appleton and Kaukauna and Oshkosh.

An open card party was given by St. Augustine congregation Sunday evening, 66 tables being in play. Prizes were awarded as follows: bridge, Miss Catharine McGrath; Mrs. Roland Miller, Charles Luther; five hundred, John Gruber, Dr. Royal Klotz, Mrs. Robert Bittner, schafkopf, Nick Keuler, Jacob Noll, euchre, Luke Owens; skat, Walter Schmidtkofer, Ted Gerrits, Math Koch, Emil Steiner, Robert Bittner, John Mueller, Anton Heilmann, Louis Bruckner and Nick Mullenbach.

Clintonville Pair Returns Home After 2-Month Auto Trip

CLINTONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kluth have returned to their home near this city from a two months motor trip through the western states. Leaving here early in September, they visited relatives in South Dakota and saw the Black Hills and Bad Lands in that state. From there they went to Yellowstone National park, where they spent several days in sightseeing. They next went to Shelby, Mont., to visit relatives, and then continued to Glacier National park. Continuing westward, Mr. and Mrs. Kluth visited in Spokane, Wash., with the Paul Schmidts and Henry Manser families, formerly of Clintonville. They also stopped at Coulee dam and at the Dry Falls while in the state of Washington.

The Kluths visited for a week with relatives at Salem and Portland, Ore., after which stops were made at Newport, Mount Hood, and at Bonneville dam. On their way southward along the Pacific coast, they stopped at Sea Lion cave, where hundreds of sea lions make their permanent home.

In California, they traveled through the giant redwood forest and crossed the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco. They spent a week at Los Angeles and Compton, and took the boat trip to Catalina island.

Their next stop was at Boulder dam, across the Colorado river between Nevada and Arizona, from where they drove to the Petrified forest and the Painted desert of Arizona. Continuing homeward along a southern route, they went through the states of New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. They traveled over 8,350 miles on the trip and did not encounter a flat tire. Mr. Kluth is a member of the Waupaca County Highway commission, and until last spring held the office of chairman of the town of Matteson, a post which he had for many years.

Three Fined as Reckless Drivers

Two Pay Fines of $50 and Costs in Clintonville Justice Court

CLINTONVILLE — Gordon Onholdt, 24, Shiocton, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $50 and costs by Justice E. E. Larson here Monday afternoon. His license was revoked for six months. Onholdt was arrested at about 8 o'clock Sunday evening after his car, which was coming into Clintonville on highway 22, collided with two other cars which were parked on N. Main street. After striking Carl Folkman's car, which was parked in front of the John Winkler residence, his machine struck a car owned by Robert LaMarche of San Diego, Calif., parked in front of the A. E. Klingert home, where Mr. LaMarche was visiting. After striking the second car, the Onholdt machine careened up on the Klingert lawn, where it came to a halt. The driver, who was alone in the car, received cuts on the face and arm, for which he received treatment at the Clintonville Community hospital.

Quinn Martin, 25, of this city, pleaded guilty on a reckless driving charge and paid a fine of $50 and costs in Justice Larson's court Monday evening. The car owned and driven by Martin collided with an electric light pole in front of the local hospital early Monday morning. The pole, which carried a transformer, was broken off plunging the hospital and neighborhood into darkness for a time. The car was completely demolished, but the driver suffered only minor bruises.

Lester Widder of this community was assessed $10 and costs for reckless driving Monday by Justice Larson. On Sunday, Widder collided with another car in the vicinity of Eighth and Brix streets, causing minor damages to both cars.

Asked what Knute Rockne would have done about present day gridiron developments such as razzle-dazzle laterals, five and six men lines, etc., Elmer Layden, Notre Dame coach and one of Rock's prize pupils, answered: "He would have kept up with 'em."

His legion of friends are going to toss a big party in Washington Nov. 6 when Walter Johnson, the old "big train" observes his fiftieth anniversary.

Henry Armstrong is going to challenge Lou Ambers to a lightweight title match.

Everyone concerned is as silent as can be on reports that Joe Medwick is tagged for the Giants.

Invincibles Win Junior High Soccer Tournament

The Invincibles, an eighth grade soccer team at Roosevelt Junior High school, won the school championship in a girls' soccer tournament completed last week. Second place went to the Roosevelt Tigers, a seventh grade squad. The Stampers took third place and the Torpedos won fourth position. Captains of the teams in their place order are Shirley Heinrich, Ruth Schwandt, Dorothy Bailey and Shirley Buesing. A deck tennis tournament is now under way at the school. Miss Genevieve Kronschnabel is instructor.

Benny Frey Gas Victim

JACKSON, Mich. — (AP) — Benny Frey, former major league pitcher whose throwing arm failed him last spring, was found dead from carbon monoxide poisoning late yesterday afternoon. He was 31.

Relatives said he was fearful that his arm never would be good enough again for a big league baseball assignment and that he had spent several despondent months since his release by the Cincinnati Reds.

This activity," Neverman concluded.

Cities not previously mentioned and which have night high school football include Chippewa Falls, Sheboygan, Racine, Janesville, Oshkosh and Eau Claire.

The survey also showed that experiments other than night football have been made in an effort to make up for the loss of value of the Saturday afternoon engagement. Occasional games are played Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons. But none seem likely to displace Friday night.

Play Final Games In Class Basketball Tournament Today

New London—One-sided victories have characterized the class basketball tournaments at Washington High school in the first four games but stiffer battles are expected as the upper and lower classes angle on more even terms among themselves in the final contests this afternoon.

In the first games the seniors beat the freshmen 44 to 7 and the juniors took the sophomores 24 to 13. In yesterday's games the junior team's substitutes ran up a 66 to 9 score over the freshmen but the latter also put in substitutes near the end of the game to give everyone a chance to play. The sophomores lost to the seniors 14 to 23.

This afternoon the seniors and juniors will seek supremacy while the freshmen and sophomores will decide the lower half positions. Because of the teachers' convention the regular basketball squad will be selected next week and regular practice will begin. Forty-eight boys are taking part in the class tournament.

Committee Inspects Alleys: April 1 Selected As Opening Day

New London—Preparations for the third annual state bowling tournament of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were launched here this week following a visit of the state bowling committee Sunday. With 65 teams rolling in the veterans' second tourney last year the Loanman-Schaller post expects to entertain an even larger number at New London this year.

The opening date was set for April 1 and bowling will continue throughout the month. An effort will be made to conclude the tournament by the end of April. Special opening ceremonies are planned with state officers and directors of the V.F.W. taking the alleys for the first sessions.

A plaque will be presented to the team that wins the tournament. In addition there will be several traveling prizes offered by the state organization.

Circuit Court Autumn Session Unusually Short

Many Cases Settled Out of Court and Two are Dismissed

Waupaca—The November term of circuit court which opened Monday morning, will be unusually short this year. Many cases have been settled out of court, some continued. Two cases were dismissed—one as "too foolish to waste the county's money upon," according to Judge Byron B. Park, who dismissed the case against Gladys Walsh, charged with abusive language.

The other case dismissed was that of William Abel, New London tavern operator, who was accused of interfering with a probationer. This case was quashed on motion of the district attorney. Abel had been arrested at New London on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor to a probationer.

Paul Schreder, on the calendar for false swearing when he applied for a fishing license, changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced by Judge Park to one to two years at Waupaca and paroled for from one to three years to the state board of control.

Richard Wilkie, who has been in every term of circuit court for the last ten years on a charge of abandonment, was ordered by the judge to pay $30 towards the support of his children and "never return here again."

Wilkie, short of stature, said all he had was $39, and Judge Park said, "Give it to the clerk before you lose it."

Wilkie countered: "That's why I'm short," but the judge said: "You have always been short and I don't want to see you again until you have grown some."

He was ordered to pay the remaining $11 "sometime between now and next May."

The jury was dismissed for the day to return at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

and Rob Kannenberg attended the funeral of James Coffey at Oshkosh Friday.

YOU NEED TWO GASOLINES IN ONE TO MEET WEATHER CHANGES

BLENDING POINTS
at strategic locations throughout the territory change Skelly gasoline for your temperatures and seasons.

FORECASTER CHARLES A. DONNELL of the Chicago U. S. Weather Bureau. His reports guide Skelly engineers in making gasoline fit the weather.

ARE YOU A MISSING HEIR?

Perhaps you—or a relative or friend—may be the heir to one of the thousands of unclaimed estates in this country today. That is why Skelly broadcasts every week a dramatic radio show that presents the true facts about two estates which have never been claimed.

LISTEN-IN TO THE "SKELLY COURT OF MISSING HEIRS" ON MONDAY NIGHTS ON C.B.S. AND OTHER STATIONS. And ask your Skelly dealer for a free copy of the weekly bulletin which contains the facts about six other estates that await the rightful heirs.

BLENDING SKELLY GASOLINES at Kansas City, Missouri. Each section we serve is supplied by a near-by blending point.

So Skelly gives you different blends of gasoline to assure quick starts, long mileage under all weather conditions

When your starter turns over and over again on cold days it's a sign you need a lighter, quick-firing gasoline. But this type alone won't give you economical power. You also need a heavier, fuller-bodied gasoline to get long mileage.

So Skelly gives you both in one—blended in just the right proportion to fit the weather.

Guided by U. S. Weather reports and Bureau of Standards data, Skelly engineers have worked out the correct blends for different weather conditions.

And to make these changing blends quickly available to different sections, blending points have been established. Each blending point ships Skelly dealers in its territory, gasoline blended to fit the weather.

The result: a blend of gasoline that starts fast yet gives long mileage at all times, no matter what the weather. And when you avoid excess "choking" you cut down crankcase dilution, carbon and repair bills.

Try today, this gasoline that's made to fit your driving conditions. There's a friendly Skelly Service station near you.
